Teaching Macroskills

LISTENING

Listening comprehension skills or Enabling skills
Listening for detail	listening for specific information
Listening for gist	listening to get only the main and most important ideas
Drawing inferences	listening to fill in gaps and draw conclusions from the message uttered
Listening selectively	listening only to specific parts of the input
Making predictions	listening to create anticipations before and while listening

Types of Listening

Appreciative	listening for enjoyment (listening to music)
Informative	listen to learn something
Critical	the goal is to evaluate or scrutinize what is being said
Therapeutic	Listen to support others but not to judge them

SPEAKING

Linguistic Interference	applying knowledge from their native language to a second language
The Intercultural Speaker	who is allowed to retain his or her social, linguistic, and cultural baggage and isn't required to imitate the native speaker
Intelligibility	is whether an utterance is understood by an interlocutor
Comprehensibility	is a listener's perception of how easy or difficult second-language speech is to understand
Accent	is how different the phonology of an individual's speech is from that of the listener

Stages In a Speaking Lesson

Presentation stage (Pre-activity Phase)	•Teacher: informant •Students listen and try to understand
Practice stage (While or Main Activity/ Speaking Activity)	•Teacher: monitor or facilitator •Students do most of the talking •Meaningful, authentic, and memorable practice
Production stage	•Teacher: manager, guide, adviser •Students use the language for themselves •Free use of language (free expression is more important than mistakes)

The main components of communication process are as follows:

Context	In which communication takes place. This context may be physical, social, chronological or cultural.
Sender / Encoder	a person who sends the message. A sender makes use of symbols (words or graphic or visual aids) to convey the message.

Message	is a key idea that the sender wants to communicate. It is a sign that elicits the response of recipient.
Medium	is a means used to exchange / transmit the message
Recipient/Decoder	is a person for whom the message is intended / aimed / targeted.
Feedback	the main component of communication process as it permits the sender to analyze the efficacy of the message.

The different categories of communication include:

Spoken or Verbal Communication	includes face-to-face, telephone, radio or television and other media
Non-Verbal Communication	covering body language, gestures, how we dress or act, where we stand, and even our scent
Written Communication	This includes letters, e-mails, social media, books, magazines, the Internet
Visualizations	graphs and charts, maps, logos

READING

Schema Theory	states that all knowledge is organized into units. Within these units of knowledge, or schemata, is stored information. A schema, then, is a generalized description or a conceptual system for understanding knowledge: how knowledge is represented and how it is used
Comprehension monitoring	is the ability to accurately assess one's own comprehension
Goals of Teaching Reading	• Schema Activation • Vocabulary Development • Reading Comprehension • Understanding text organization • Application
Reading Process	• Prereading • Reading • Responding • Exploring • Applying/Extending
Reading Stages

PRE-READING STRATEGIES	-to PREPARE LEARNERS for the text they are going to read -to activate students' SCHEMATA and PREVIOUS KNOWLEDGE about the topic.
WHILE-READING STRATEGIES	-to actually READ the TEXT and DECODE the MESSAGE being conveyed -to provide them with the APPROPRIATE STRATEGIES to develop their reading skills
POST-READING STRATEGIES	to REACT to the TEXT they have just read
Reading Strategies
SPAWN Strategy to examine complex issues while thinking critically about a reading selection:	S- Special Powers P- Problem Solving A-Alternative viewpoints W- What If N- Next
Clines	are gradients used to help learners refine their knowledge of words describing a similar attribute, or shades of meaning. (e.g. Chilly - cold - freezing. Flat - shallow - deep - fathomless)
Strategies In Reading Comprehension
DRTA- Directed Reading Thinking Activity	comprehension through predicting the text
SQ3R- Survey, Question, Read, Retrieve, and Review	A Reading Comprehension Method
SQ4R	Survey, Question, Read, Retrieve, Relate, and Review
IRI- Informal Reading Inventory	determine students' needs
Skimming	means looking at a text or chapter quickly in order to have a general idea of the contents.
Scanning	means looking at a text to find some particular information

The Three Tiers of Vocabulary Development

Tier 1	-consists of the most basic words—rarely require direct instruction and typically do not have multiple meanings - Sight words, nouns, verbs, adjectives, and early reading words -Examples: book, girl, sad, run, dog, and orange.
---------------	---

Tier 2	-consists of high frequency words that occur across a variety of domains , words occur often in adult conversations and literature -the most important words for direct instruction because they are good indicators of a student's progress through school. -Examples: masterpiece, fortunate, industrious, measure, and benevolent.
Tier 3	- low-frequency words that occur in specific domains—subjects in school, hobbies, occupations, geographic regions, technology, weather, etc. -Examples: economics, isotope, asphalt, Revolutionary War, and crepe.

Types of Reading Activity

- Shared reading – the teacher models the strategies and skills of a proficient reader

Steps of Shared Reading in Content Literacy

1. Introduce the story by discussing the title, cover, and author/illustrator. Ask the students to make predictions about the story.
2. Read the story aloud to the students. Pause and ask the students to make predictions. Ask brief questions to determine students' comprehension level.
3. Conclude the reading by reserving time for reactions and comments. Ask questions about the story and relate the story to the students' similar experiences. Ask the children to retell the story in their own words.
4. Re-read the story and/or allow time for independent reading.
5. Conduct follow-up activities such as making crafts related to the story.
6.
 - Guided – involves a teacher working with small group of students who demonstrate similar reading behaviors
 - Buddy - paired reading
 - Choral reading – a student or group of students read the story together, with or without the teacher

Types of Reading Comprehension Skills

Literal Reading Read the lines: recall information stated directly and explicitly in the text.	• Factual (Recall Character, Setting, or Time Details, action, event, list sequence) • answers found directly in the text or by information readily available in outside sources

Inferential/ Interpretive Reading Read between the lines: Interpret Information Implied in the text	• Inferential—answers to these questions may be implied (address motive of author or a character)/ • found by following patterns and seeing relationships among parts of the text • interpret theme, main idea, summarize
Critical/Evaluative Reading (Global) Read behind and beyond the lines: evaluate Information based on personal knowledge and experiences.	• Connecting--answers to these questions emphasize the "So what?" of the text • link text to prior knowledge, other texts, or human experiences in life • Giving an opinion about character, events, realistic • Author's decision, Point of View

WRITING

Abridgment	a book, play, or piece of writing that has been made shorter by removing some details or less important information
Summary	a short, clear description that gives the main facts or ideas about something
Brief	formal document a lawyer uses both to convince a court that the client's argument is sound and to persuade a court to adopt that position
Critique	a detailed analysis and assessment of something , especially a literary, philosophical, or political theory

Types of Discourse

Argument:	to convince an audience that the writer or speaker is correct, using evidence and reason
Narration:	tells a story , often with emotion and empathy involved.
Description:	relies on the five senses to help the audience visualize something .
Exposition:	Inform the audience of something with relatively neutral language, i.e., it's not meant to persuade or evoke emotion .

Steps In Summarizing

1. Start by skimming the text to get an idea of what the text is about.
2. Cross out sentences that are not necessary or that are redundant to help them pull out what is crucial to the message of the piece.
3. Mark key words and phrases and jot down notes about the main idea. Instruct students to look for signal words such as therefore, in conclusion, or in summary.
4. Have them verbally summarize the nonfiction piece to a peer.

5. Then, have them reread the text and write a summary paragraph. In the summary, students should state the text's main idea in the first sentence and include the most important information.

VIEWING

Viewing Comprehension	refers to the ability of the participants to perceive meaning from visual presentations with levels literal, reorganizational, inferential, evaluation and appreciation comprehension
------------------------------	---

Preparation & Evaluation of Instructional Materials

Points to remember in adapting materials:

1. Techniques are selected according to the aspect of the material that needs alteration
2. Content can be adapted using a range of techniques (single content technique can be applied to different content area)
3. It can have both quantitative and qualitative effects
4. Techniques can be used individually or in combination with others.

Modifying content	-refers to the internal change in the approach or focus of an exercise -Re-writing is done when some linguistic content needs modification for the materials to be 'more communicative'. -Re-structuring applies to classroom management
Modifying tasks	Exercises and activities may need to be changed to give them additional focus
Adding or deleting content	The book may contain too much or too little for the program
Reorganizing content	A teacher may decide to reorganize the syllabus of the book, and arrange the units in what she considers a more suitable order

Addressing omissions	The text may omit items that the teacher feels are important. For example a teacher may add vocabulary activities or grammar activities to a unit
Extending tasks	Exercises may contain insufficient practice, and additional practice tasks may need to be added.
Deleting	- Subtracting means reducing the amount of the material - Abridging happens when the materials is not only subtracted but is replaced with something else that does not alter the balance of the lesson or the material.

Pedagogy

Peer Counseling	is a special program focusing on peers helping peers . Peer counselor is to mediate problems between students by helping them to find their answers
Peer Assisted Learning (PAL)	provides opportunity to refresh their subject knowledge to develop employability skills such as leadership, facilitation, project management, communication and inter-personal skills
Peer assessment	is an educational activity in which students judge the performance of their peers
Peer Monitoring	help a less experienced person achieve their goals by being receiving assistance and guidance from a more experienced person

Strategies in Language Teaching

Snowball Toss	a Quick Write or Quick Draw , then students crumple their paper, throw and read so that they can stay rooted in one place
Quaker reading	meeting of students to share responses to a piece of literature
Hot Seat	basically take on the role of a character from that book , then they would take on questions from their peers
Think-Pair-Share	Teacher poses a question to the group , and each student has a minute or two to think about the question , then discuss it to someone and to the whole class
Round Robin	Students are sitting with groups , and the teacher asks them a question where each student in a group take turns in answering to come up with an answer that they all agree on

Tea Party	Students form two circles facing each other where they are given a question and they are to discuss it with the student they are facing
Carousel	Students are broken into groups and the teacher places chart paper around the room with different questions each group has to answer in rotation.

Methods in Language Teaching

Grammar Translation Method (Classical Method) - GTM	- Grammar provides rules; instruction focuses on form - Drills from Target Language to Mother Tongue - Little or no attention on pronunciation
Direct Method (Natural Approach) - DM	exclusively in the Target Language, grammar is taught inductively, modeling and practice - Emphasis on correct pronunciation and grammar
Audio-lingual Method—ALM	- mimicry, memorization, and over-learning, repetitive drills. - Little or no grammatical explanation; grammar is taught inductively rather than deductively - Great importance attached to pronunciation; produce error-free utterances
Cognitive Code Learning - CCL	- Chomskyan Revolutionists - A reaction towards the behavioristic practices of the ALM, more deductive rule learning - emphasized a conscious awareness of rules
Community Language Learning - CLL	- in a circle with the counselor on the outside who translates the message into the target (counselor aids the clients from dependence to independence) Conversation is taped and learners inductively attempt together; therapy like
Suggestopedia - S	- Georgi Lozanov - Being suggestible; state of relaxation (Use of Baroque music and provision of comfortable seats) - Giving over teacher control
Silent Way - SW	- Caleb Gattegno - Humanistic approach/discovery learning - Learners should develop Independence, autonomy, and responsibility - accompanying physical objects facilitated by problem solving and materials (Cuisenaire rods, colourful wall charts)

Total Physical Response-TPR	-James Asher -Children listen a lot than speak accompanied by physical response -The instructor is the director and the students are the actors (utilization of imperative mood)
Natural Approach - NA	-Stephen Krashen, yet developed by Tracy Terrell -Learners should be relaxed , goal of basic personal communication skills and everyday language situations, emphasizes the ' silent period ' (listening only) until children feel ready to speak.
Communicative Language Teaching (CLT)	-focused on all the components of communicative competence (use of language for meaningful purposes) -Fluency and accuracy are complementary, students focus on their own learning process, teacher as facilitator - Learner-centered teaching, cooperative learning, interactive learning, whole language education, content-centered education, task-based learning
Situational Language Teaching (Oral Approach)-SLT	-Speech, structures and a focus on a set of basic vocabulary items (structures on situations) -Repetition, habit formation, mistakes are BANNED. -produce accurate pronunciation and use of grammar , to respond quickly and accurately in speech situations -pronunciation-> revision (to prepare for new work if necessary)-> presentation of new structure or vocabulary-> oral practice (drilling)-> reading of material on the new structure, or written exercises

WAIVE

WELCOMING	examined the role of language in fostering a welcoming and positive environment
ACCOMMODATING	teachers need strategies to help them overcome anxiety, resentment, and resignation in working with students in foreign language classes (emphasis on language learning)
INVIGORATING	Teaching rests on relationships whether face to face or through online communication. Enthusiasm of the presenter adds to participant engagement.

VALUING	the internationalization of English will lead individuals engaged in cross-cultural teaching to value each situation uniquely
EVALUATING	teachers want to try new methods if the result will decrease the test scores

English for Specific Purposes

ESP is designed to meet specific needs of the learners.

Absolute Characteristics

1. ESP is defined to meet specific needs of the learners
2. ESP makes use of underlying methodology and activities of the discipline it serves
3. ESP is centered on the language appropriate to these activities in terms of grammar, lexis, register, study skills, discourse and genre.

Graded Readers	are books of various genres that are specially created for learners of foreign languages . They may be simplified versions of existing works, original stories or books that are factual in nature.
Lesson Exemplar	Inquiry-based investigations that provide teachers with a way of teaching and assessing science-process and communication skills
Course Outline	summary of main points of a text, lecture, or course of study
Subject Framework	organized plan or set of standards or learning outcomes that defines the content to be learned
Unit Plan	concepts and learning goals that are taught over a period of time

List of some commonly used activities in an ESP program:

Role play and Simulation	Students assume a different role or a role that is present in their future work area.
Case studies	It involves studying the facts of a real-life case , discussing the issues involved, and coming up with a decision or plan (common for business, medicine, law)
Project work	students are expected to construct manuals , which explain how it works and/or discuss how their project was made (engineering)

Oral presentations	students may present or even defend a particular product or issue.

Types of Syllabus (Reilley)

Structural (formal) Syllabus	-Focuses on forms and structures of language , i.e. grammar -Examples include nouns, verbs, adjectives, statements, questions, subordinate clauses, and so on.
Notional/functional syllabus	-focused on various language functions that are performed when language is used, or of the notions that a language is used to express -Examples of the functions includes: informing, agreeing, apologizing, requesting; examples of notions includes age, size, color, comparison, time, and so on
Situational syllabus	-collection of real or imaginary situations in which language occurs or is used . -Examples of the situations include: seeing the dentist, complaining to the landlord, buying a book, meeting a new student, and so on.
Skill-based syllabus	-a collection of specific abilities that may play a part using language . -Skill-based syllabi group linguistic competencies (pronunciation, vocabulary, grammar, and discourse) together into generalized types of behavior, such as listening to spoken language for main idea, writing well-formed paragraphs, giving effective oral presentations, and so on.
Task-based syllabus	-series of complex and purposeful tasks that the student wants or need to perform with the language they are learning. -tasks that the learners actually have to perform in real life. Examples include: Applying for a job, talking with a social worker, getting housing information over the telephone, and so on.
Content-based syllabus	-to teach some content or information using the language that the students are also learning. -An example is a science class taught in the language the students need or want to learn, possibly with linguistic adjustment to make science more comprehensible.

Approaches to Course Design

Skill-centered	involves certain skills and strategies, which the learner uses in order to produce or comprehend discourse
----------------	---

Learning-centered	learning is totally determined by the learner (what the learners do not know or already knows about the language)
Language-centered	the nature of the target situation performance determines ESP course

Curriculum

Salient Features of K to 12 Curriculum In Basic Education

- Strengthening Early Childhood Education (Universal Kindergarten)
- Making the Curriculum Relevant to Learners (Contextualization and Enhancement)- Examples, activities, songs, poems, stories, and illustrations are based on local culture, history, and reality.
- Building Skill (Mother Tongue-Based Multilingual Education)
- Ensuring Unified and Seamless Learning (Spiral Progression)
- Gearing Up for the Future (Senior High School)
- Nurturing the Fully Developed Filipino (College and Livelihood Readiness, 21st Century Skills)

Communicative Competence

Grammatical/Linguistic Competence	the acquisition of phonological rules, morphological words, syntactic rules, semantic rules and lexical items .
Sociolinguistic Competence	learning of pragmatic aspect of various speech acts, namely, the cultural values, norms, and other sociocultural conventions in social contexts .
Discourse Competence	is the knowledge of rules regarding the cohesion (grammatical links) and coherence (appropriate combination of communicative actions) of various types of discourse (oral and written) .
Strategic Competence	is to DO with the knowledge of verbal and non-verbal strategies to compensate for breakdown such as self-correction .

The curriculum shall use pedagogical approaches that are constructivist, inquiry-based, reflective, collaborative and integrative;

Language & Literature Assessment

Discrete-Point Testing	works on the assumption that language can be reduced to several discrete component "points" and that these "points" can be assessed. Examples: multiple choice, true/false, fill in the blank, and spelling.
Integrative Language Testing Methods	-based on the unitary trait hypothesis, which states that language is indivisible . - Cloze test involves taking an authentic reading passage and removing words from it . - Dictation is simply writing down what was heard . This also requires the use of several language skills simultaneously in a realistic context.
Washback	-the way that tests affect the classroom teaching - Positive washback refers to expected test effects . For example, a test may encourage students to study more or may promote a connection between standards and instruction. Negative washback refers to the unexpected, harmful consequences of a test .
Diagnostic assessments	are used to assess specific skills or components of reading such as phonemic awareness, phonics skills, and fluency . The results of diagnostic assessments inform instruction and intervention.
Drilling	was a key feature of audio-lingual method approaches to language teaching, which placed emphasis on repeating structural patterns through oral practice . It means listening to a model, provided by the teacher, or a tape or another student and repeating what is heard

Language Testing

ESSAY-TRANSLATION APPROACH	consist of essay writing, translation and grammatical analysis .
STRUCTURALIST APPROACH	-views that language learning is chiefly concerned with systematic acquisition of a set of habits . -Testing the skills of listening, speaking, reading and writing is separate from another as much as possible .

INTEGRATIVE APPROACH	-involves the testing of language in context and is thus concerned primarily with meaning and the total communicative effect of discourse. -The use of cloze test, dictation, oral interview, translation and essay writing are included in many integrative tests.
COMMUNICATIVE APPROACH	-are concerned primarily with how language is used in communication . Language use is often emphasized to the exclusion of language usage . -The test content should totally be relevant for a particular group of examinees and the tasks set should relate to real-life situation.

Functions of Language Tests

In learning	used to measure students' ability, to discover how much they have been learning, to diagnose student's strengths and weaknesses and to motivate students in learning .
In teaching	means to ensure effective teaching, to improve teaching quality to obtain feedback on student learning
In research	potentially important role in all basic and applied research related to the nature of language proficiency, language processing, language acquisition, language attrition and language teaching .

Steps in writing a Literature Test

1. Identify the context
2. Plan for the test
3. Select texts (seen text vs. unseen text)
4. Group skills
5. Match texts to task
6. Write test items
7. Clarify marking criteria

What are included in the literary learning process?

- Description
- Discrimination
- Relation
- Interpretation
- Generalization
- Evaluation
- Valuing
- Creation

Remedial Instruction

A REMEDIAL PROGRAM primarily helps students address language skills deficit by helping them acquire self-confidence to face their own weakness and overcome these through the acquisition of self-help strategies.

Acquired Dyslexia	reading ability as a result of brain damage
Aphasia	production or comprehension of speech and the ability to read or write
Jargon Aphasia	Individual's speech is Incomprehensible , but appears to make sense to the individual.
Anomia	a frequent finding among patients in the early stages of Alzheimer's disease. The high number of Tip-of-the-Tongue (TOT) answers in DAT found in relation to few spontaneously named items shows that post-semantic deficits

Intervention Elements

Non-negotiable	they must be completed exactly as designed
Negotiable	the teacher has some latitude in how to carry out those steps
