11. The writer acknowledged to have introduced modernism in Philippine poetry in English is

- a. Jose Garcia Villa
- b. Angela Manalang Gloria
- c. Hilario Francia Jr.
- d. Cirilo Bautista

Jose Garcia Villa (1908–1997) was a Filipino poet, writer, and critic. He used the pen name “Doveglion,” which was a combination of the words “dove,” “eagle,” and “lion” and was what he believed was his true persona. His notable works include The Anchored Angel, The Emperor’s New Sonnet, and Footnote to Youth.

Angela Manalang Gloria’s Poems (1940) is the first and only pre-war anthology of poetry in English by a Filipino woman. A collection of lyrical pieces exploring a woman’s private passions, it was predictably ignored at the 1940 Commonwealth Literary Contests, which prized social significance and moral values. Although re-issued as a student anthology in 1950, Poems failed to merit the attention of the dominant literary critics of the time, who subscribed to the school of New Criticism.

Hilario Francia, Jr is a poet, a painter, printmaker, book designer, translator, and professional lecturer in the Humanities. As poet, his very first collection of poems won the coveted Palanca Memorial Award for poetry. He is cited in the encyclopedia of Contemporary poets writing in English, London and in the International Directory of Press Editors and Publishers, New York .

Cirilo F. Bautista is a poet, fictionist and essayist with exceptional achievements and significant contributions to the development of the country's literary arts. He is acknowledged by peers and critics, and the nation at large as the foremost writer of his generation. One of the last living iconic writers of his generation, Bautista wrote poetry, fiction and essays. His best known work is the epic poetry trilogy “The Trilogy of Saint Lazarus,” made up of the “The Archipelago (1970), “Telex Moon” (1981) and “Sunlight on Broken Stones” (1999).
