

GENERAL EDUCATION- ENGLISH

LANGUAGE

GRAMMAR

Types of Grammar

- 1. Descriptive Grammar – Language in context; usage
- 2. Prescriptive Grammar – Language based on rules

Fields of Grammar

- 1. Phonology – deals with the systematic study of sounds.
- 2. Morphology – deals with the study of word formation
- 3. Syntax – deals with the arrangement of words and phrases; structure
- 4. Semantics – deals with the meaning of a text

PHONOLOGY

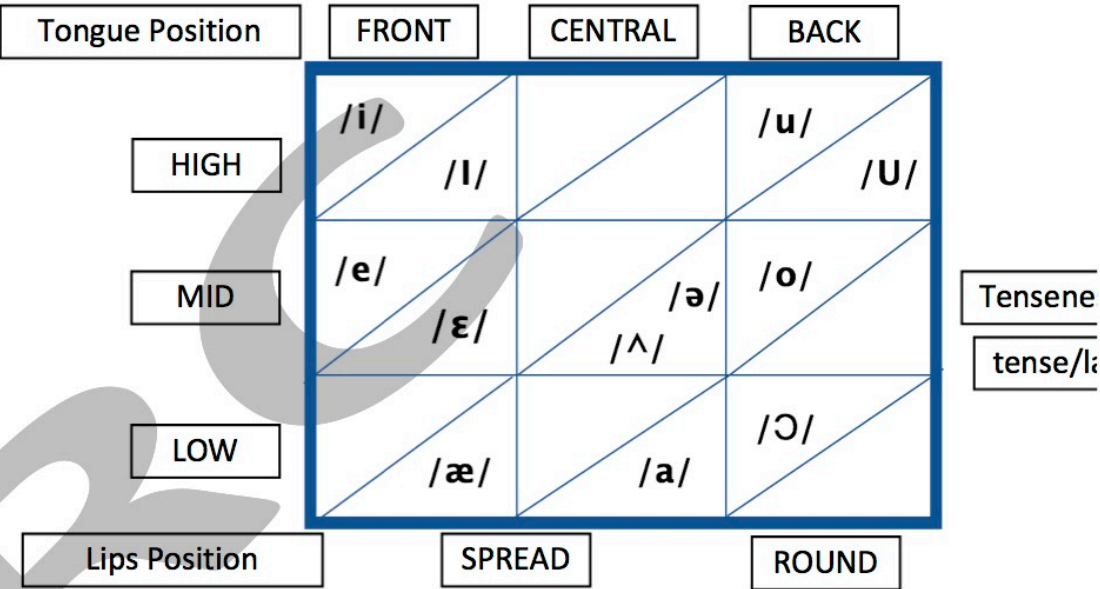

The study of sound.

- 1. Phoneme – is the smallest meaningful unit in sound (/b/).
- 2. Grapheme – is the smallest meaningful unit in writing system (b).

Vowels

Phonemic Symbol	Example
/i/	seat
/I/	sit
/e/	say
/ε/	said
/æ/	sad
/^/	sun
/ə/	syrup

Phonemic Symbol	Example
/a/	sod
/u/	suit
/U/	soot
/o/	so
/ɔ/	saw
/aI/	sight
/aU/	south
/ɔI/	soy

Consonants

Phonemic Symbol	Example
/p/	pat
/b/	bat
/t/	tab
/d/	dab
/k/	cap
/g/	gap
/f/	fat
/v/	vat

Phonemic Symbol	Example
/č/	chew
/ŋ/	wing
/U/	mom
/o/	nun
/ɔ/	cow
/aI/	right
/aU/	yen
/ɔI/	wet

Phonemic Symbol	Example
/θ/	throne
/ð/	these
/I/	life
/s/	so
/z/	zoo
/š/	shoe
/ž/	treasure
/h/	ham

GENERAL EDUCATION- ENGLISH

PARTS OF SPEECH

The building blocks of language.

They function to explain usage of word in a sentence.

Content Words (Open Class) – Noun, Verb, Adjective, Adverb, Interjection

Function Words (Closed Class) – Pronoun, Preposition, Conjunction, Article

1. Noun - a word used to name a person, place, thing, state or quality.

Kinds of Nouns:

- Proper nouns are specific. Their first letters are capitalized.
Jake, Fenilla, Monday, Davao City
- Common nouns are general.
man, student, clinic, teacher, school
- Collective nouns name groups.
family, army, flock, choir
- Mass nouns cannot be counted
salt, sugar, flour, feedback, equipment
- Concrete nouns exist in the physical world
petals, tables, pens, cups
- Abstract nouns refer to ideas and feelings.
sadness, joy, brilliance

Functions of Nouns

- Subject of the Sentence (S)- the one that is talked about in the sentence.
Maureen expressed her gratitude to her fans.
- Vocative (V) - indicates that somebody is being directly addressed by the speaker.
Where is everybody, Maureen?
- Direct Object (DO) - The one that receives the action of the verb. Answers the question who or what after the verb Maureen kicks the ball.
- Indirect Object- Answers the question to whom or for whom Maureen left Froilan food for the holidays.
- Subject Noun Predicate- A word/phrase that refers back to the subject. Comes after a linking verb.
Maureen is the actress.
- Object Noun Predicate- comes after a direct object. Refers back to the object.

The group appointed Maureen leader of the club.

g. Object of the Preposition- comes after a preposition.

Maureen correlates love with effort.

h. Appositive- is a noun or noun phrase that renames another noun right beside it.

Maureen, my sister, celebrates her birthday.

2. Pronoun- a word used to replace a noun.

Kinds of Pronouns

a. Personal pronouns

Refer to people or things which can be singular or plural. Refer to the speaker, the person spoken to, and the person spoken about.

Case	Function
subjective/ nominative	subject of the sentence
objective	object of a verb, compound verb, preposition, or infinitive phrase
possessive	marker of possession; ownership of particular object or person

A. First Person- the person talking

I, Me, Us, We, My, Our, Mine, Ours, Myself, Ourselves

B. Second Person- the person spoken to

You, Your, Yours, Yourself, Yourselves

C. Third Person- The person being talked about

He, She, It, Its, They, Him, Her, Them, Their, His, Hers, Theirs, Himself, Herself, Itself, Themselves

	Nominative	Objective	Possessive
Singular
1 st person	I	me	my, mine
2 nd person	you	you	your, yours
3 rd person	he, she, it	him, her, it	his, her, hers, its
Plural
1 st person	we	us	our, ours
2 nd person	you	you	your, yours
3 rd person	they	them	their, theirs

GENERAL EDUCATION- ENGLISH

Nominative Case

1. Pronoun - Action Verb

Ex. He and (I, me) sang.

2. Be verb – Pronoun

Ex. The singer is (he, him).

3. Appositive – (Pronoun – Noun)

(He, him), my friend, is cute.

Objective Case

1. Verb – Pronoun

Ex. I gave (he, him) a chance.

2. Preposition -Pronoun

Ex. I smiled at (he, him).

Possessive Case

Ex. The bag is (me, my, mine).

b. Indefinite pronouns

Refer to an identifiable but not specified person or thing.

Singular- any, anybody, nobody, anyone, each, everyone, one, someone, somebody, every, either, neither

Plural- all, some, few, both, several, many

c. Reflexive and Intensive Pronoun

myself, yourself, herself, itself, himself

Reflexive Pronoun

Refers back to the subject in the sentence/gives emphasis to the subject.

I owe it to myself.

Intensive Pronoun

is used to emphasize the antecedent.

I myself made that decision.

d. Demonstrative Pronoun

This (singular) (near)

This is my handbag.

These (plural) (near)

These are my shoes.

That (singular) (distant)

That is my bag.

Those (plural) (distant)

Those are my books.

e. Relative pronouns

used to link one phrase or clause to another phrase or clause.

who, whose, whoever whom, that, which, whichever

d. Interrogative Pronoun

who, which, what, whom, whose, whoever,

Who wrote the novel Les Miserables?

Whom do you think they should talk to?

3. Verb- a content word that denotes an action, occurrence, or state of existence

INFLECTION	FUNCTION	EXAMPLE
-S	Present form (singular)	sing-s
-d/-ed	Past form	walk-ed
-en	Perfect form	be-en
-ing	Progressive form	walk-ing

Kinds of Verbs

a. Regular verbs- form their past tense by the adding 'd' or 'ed' to the base form.

jump

jumped

jumped

laugh

laughed

laughed

b. Irregular verbs- form their past tense and past participle in several ways.

be

was / were

been

lie (present)

lay (past)

lain (past participle).

lay (present)

laid (past)

laid (past participle).

(lie means to recline; lay means to place something, to put something)

GENERAL EDUCATION- ENGLISH

- c. Transitive Verb - is a type of action verb that requires a direct object.

He kicks the ball.

- d. Intransitive Verb - is a type of action verb without a direct object.

He sings in the room.

- e. Linking verbs- are used to link or join the subject with a word in the predicate which relates to the subject. The 'be' form of the verb (am, is, are, was, were) is the most commonly used linking verb.

Others forms: become, seem, look, smell, appear, feel, taste, sound, remain

He is cute.

- f. Auxiliary verb- (or Helping) verbs are used together with a main verb. The most common Auxiliary verbs is have.

Has - is used in singular, present tense of the verb.

Have - (base form) is used in plural, present tense of the verb.

Had - is used in singular / plural, past tense of the verb.

Auxiliary Verbs must be followed by a past participle form of the verbs.

He has seen him. We have seen him. I had loved him before.

- g. The Emphatic Verbs- the Emphatic Verbs must be followed by a simple form of the verb.

Do - present tense, plural + the simple form of the verb

Does- present tense, singular + the simple form of the verb

Did- past tense, singular / plural + the simple form of the verb

He does love me.

We do love him.

He did love me.

4. Adjective – is a part of speech used to modify nouns and pronouns.

Kinds of Adjectives

- a. Descriptive Adjective

– gives color and vividness to the person(s), place(s), or thing(s) we talk or write about. It tells what kind, what color, what size, what shape, etc.

- b. Limiting Adjective

– indicates the number or quantity. It tells how many, how much, which one, whose, etc.

Descriptive

Limiting

high grades

new job

two lives

one love

- c. Demonstrative Adjective

- A demonstrative adjective (this, that, these, those) shows the noun that it modifies is singular or plural and whether the position of the noun is near or far from the person who is speaking or writing.

This clock is mine.

Other Descriptive Adjectives

- a. Proper Adjective – is an adjective derived from proper nouns.

Examples:

Philippine flag

French bread

Korean food

Spanish sardines

- b. Predicate Adjective – is that which completes the meaning of the verb, and modifies the subject. It follows the linking verb, and usually describes the subject noun, or pronoun.

Life is beautiful.

- c. Possessive Adjectives- nouns used as adjectives

Examples:

Terry's house is the biggest in their place.

Order of Adjectives in an Adjective Phrase

Determiners – a, an, the, my, your etc.	Color – red, blue, green, etc.
Observations – lovely, boring, nice, etc.	Origin – British, American, Mexican, etc.
Size – tiny, small, huge, etc.	Material – gold, copper, silk, etc.
Shape – round, square, rectangular, etc.	Qualifier – limiters for compound nouns.
Age – old, new, ancient, etc.

5. Adverb – is a part of speech which modifies a verb, an adjective, or another adverb. It is generally placed immediately before or after the word it modifies.

- a. Adverb of time- An adverb of time tells us when something is done or happens. We use it at the beginning or at the end of a sentence. We use it as a form of emphasis when we place it at the beginning.

- Adverbs of time include afterwards, already, last month, now, soon, then, and yesterday.

• See you later.

- b. Adverb of place - An adverb of place tells us where something is done or happens. We use it after the verb, object or at the end of a sentence.

- Adverbs of place include words such as above, below, here, outside, over there, there under, upstairs.

GENERAL EDUCATION- ENGLISH

- My room is upstairs.
- Do not find love elsewhere; it is here.

- c. Adverb of manner- An adverb of manner tells us how something is done or happens.
- Most adverbs of manner end in -ly such as badly, happily, sadly, slowly, quickly, and others that include well, hard, fast, etc.
 - The people are slowly responding to the call for change.
 - He spoke on politics well.
- d. Adverb of degree- An adverb of degree tells us the level or extent that something is done or happens.
- Words of adverb of degree are almost, much, quite, so, too, very
 - I so love him.
 - It was quite impressive.
- e. Adverb of frequency- An adverb of frequency tells us how often something is done or happens.
- Words used as adverbs of frequency include hardly ever, nearly, nearly always, never, occasionally, often, rarely, seldom, sometimes, twice, usually, and weekly.
 - He always organizes shows.
 - I sometimes miss you.

Differentiating Modifiers

He drove the car fast. (Adverb – fast modifies the word drove)
 He leads a fast life. (Adjective – fast modifies the word life)
 I gave him a straight response. (Adjective – straight modifies the word response)
 I went straight to where we first met. (Adverb – straight modifies the word went)

6. Preposition – a word expressing the relationship between a noun, pronoun, and other elements of a sentence.

Prepositions denote various relationships:

- Place or position
at, over, up, in, to, under, down, on, from, beneath, across, above, by, on top of, around, below
- Time
at, in, during, at the beginning of, after, by, on, since, at the end before,
for, until, in the middle of
- Agent or instrument
- Accompaniment

- By, with
5. Purpose
For

- with
6. Association
of

Prepositions of Time: At, On, and In

- We use at to designate specific times.
The program will commence at 8:00 AM.
- We use on to designate days and dates.
Results will be out on Sunday.
Not all understand the significance of the celebration on June 12th.
- We use in for non-specific times during a day, a month, a season, or a year.
In the Philippines, it still rains even in summer.
I was conceived in 1992.
The jolliest time happens in December.

Prepositions of Place: At, On, and In

- We use at for specific addresses.
Ruffa Papaya lives at Prk 1-D, Balagunan, Sto. Tomas City, France.
- We use on to designate names of streets, avenues, etc.
I feel cathartic when I am on Boulevard Street.
- We use in for the names of land-areas (towns, counties, states, countries, and continents).
She dreams of living in Norway.

Prepositions of Time; for and since:

- We use for when we measure time (seconds, minutes, hours, days, months, years)- duration of time
- We use since with a specific date or time- beginning span

7. Conjunction – a word used to connect sentences, clauses, phrases or words.

Kinds of Conjunctions

- a. Coordinating Conjunction- join equals to one another i.e. words, phrases, clauses

Examples: For, And, Nor, But, Or, Yet, So (FANBOYS)

He wanted to stay, but his heart spoke otherwise.

Success requires hard work and perseverance.

Note: Coordinating conjunctions go in between items joined, not at the start or end

Punctuation rules of coordinating conjunction

GENERAL EDUCATION- ENGLISH

- When a coordinating conjunction joins two words, phrases, or subordinate clauses, no comma should be placed before the conjunction.
Cookies and milk at the beach or by the lakeside
- A coordinating conjunction joining three or more words, phrases, or subordinate clauses creates a series and requires commas between the elements.
Peanuts, cookies, and milk what you think, what you say, and what you do

Subordinating Conjunction- a conjunction that introduces a subordinate clause

Examples of Subordination:

after	in order (that)	unless	even if
although	insofar as	until	even though
as	in that	when	how
as far as	lest	whenever	if
as soon as	no matter how	where	inasmuch as
as if	now that	wherever	in case (that)
as though	once	whether	So that because	provided (that)	while	Than
before	since	why	though

b. Correlative Conjunction- A correlative conjunction is a paired conjunction that links balanced words, phrases, and clauses.

Examples: either... or, neither... nor, not only... but also

8. Interjection – is a word that expresses the feeling or emotion, and functions independently in a sentence.

Examples: Ah! Oh! Uh! Alas! Hey! Ouch! Well! Wow!

SUBJECT VERB AGREEMENT

- Verb with –s is singular. Verb without –s is plural.
He loves the musical. They love the musical.

- 1.1 Make the linking / verb agree with the real subject.
Rona's choices are final.

- 1.2 "I" takes plural verb & "am".

I believe in you. I am yours.

2. In most cases, collective noun subjects take singular verbs, but if the group is viewed as individual members, use a plural verb.

:

The orchestra plays a hit song.

The orchestra discuss the matter.

3. Non-count noun subjects take singular verb.

: Sugar is sweet. Her feedback is good.

- 3.1 Mass nouns can only be pluralized by quantifiers. Nouns such as sugar, rice, and, hair, information, and evidence,

Three sacks of sugar are heavy.

4. Some proper noun subjects that end in –s such as names of courses, diseases, places, as well as book and film titles and the word news, take singular verbs (news, politics, physics, mathematics, mumps, measles).

Examples:

Digos is in Davao del Sur.

The news was not fake.

Economics is my favorite subject.

5. Items that have two parts take a plural verb.

Slippers	Eyeglasses	Trousers	Earrings
Scissors	Sunglasses	Pants	Pliers

The scissors are cute.

- 5.1 Verb is singular when used with the word "pair".

My pair of scissors is lost.

6. Plural subject nouns such as a unit of measurement (distance, weight, time, or amount of money) that signal one unit should take a singular verb.

Four kilometers costs P200 for a taxi ride.

Five years was not issue when I waited for him.

GENERAL EDUCATION- ENGLISH

Fifty thousand pesos has less value now.

7. Basic arithmetical operations (add, subtract, multiply, divide) take singular verbs.

Four times five equals twenty

8. The indefinite pronouns in Table below are always singular:
Indefinite Pronouns

-one words	-body words	-thing words	Other
Anyone Everyone Someone No one One	Anybody Everybody Somebody Nobody	Anything Everything Something Nothing	Each Every

Examples:

Anything is possible.

Nothing satisfies him.

9. Indefinite pronouns such as: None, All, Most, Any, Some, A lot of (NAMASA) can be singular or plural.

Some of the boys are my friends.

Some of the food tastes strange.

- 9.1 With none as subject, use a singular verb.

None tastes good.

- 9.2 'Some' may modify a singular or plural noun.

Some food looks delicious.

10. With fractions, percentages, and the quantifiers *all (of), a lot of, verb agreement depends on the noun coming after these phrases.
One-half of information is relevant.

11. In pairing subjects and verbs regardless of prepositional phrases or clauses that are sometime placed in between the subject and verb.

The color of his eyes is blue. (The subject is color and not eyes.)

12. The expression 'The number' used as a subject takes a singular verb. The expression 'a number used as a subject takes a plural verb.

Examples: The number of students coming is decreasing.

A number of students are taking the test.

13. With correlative subjects either...or or neither...nor, the verb agrees with the closest subject.

Examples:

Either Jake or my friends are cute.

Neither my friends nor Jake is eating there.

- 13.1 With either or neither as subject, use a singular verb.

Example:

Either/Neither of the boys was okay.

14. With there/here subjects, the verb is singular or plural depending on whether the noun phrase following the verb is singular or plural. There and here are never used as subjects. When sentence begins with there and here, you must look thoroughly to find the real subject.

Here come my friends.

There is one person in my heart.

15. When the subjects joined by and refer to a single unit or is considered as one, it takes a singular verb.

Examples: Bread and butter is a common breakfast for Americans.

The secretary and treasurer is here.

- 15.1 Compound subjects joined by 'and' referring to separate entities, should take a plural verb

Examples: Minda and Linda are my best friends.

The secretary and the treasurer are here.

GENERAL EDUCATION- ENGLISH

16. Subjects followed by intervening expressions such as: in addition to, in company with, together with, as well as, etc. Should take verbs that agree with real subjects.

Examples: The student, together with his classmates, studies the lessons well.
Froilan, together with Jen, has gone to Palawan.

17. Adjectives used as nouns are considered plural.

Examples: The rich are popular.
 The needy are to be given shelter.

THE AGREEMENTS OF PRONOUNS AND ANTECEDENTS

1. Personal pronouns (he, she, it, they, his, her, its, their) agree in gender and number with the nouns they refer.

Example: Mr. Obeal discusses the topic to his students.

2. Two or more singular antecedents joined by 'or' or 'nor' require a singular pronoun.

Examples: Either Froilan or Jake will deliver his piece tomorrow.
 Neither the adviser nor the teacher will tackle his issue.

3. For collective nouns, the pronouns may be singular or plural according to whether the nouns are taken as a unit or as individuals composing the whole. If the collective noun is taken as a unit, the pronoun is singular. If the individuals are thought separately, the pronoun must be plural.

Examples: The class donated its funds to Bantay Bata Foundation.
 The class argued their issues among themselves.

4. Who, Whose, and Whom → would refer to person(s).
 Which → would refer to animal(s), or thing(s).
 What → would refer to things only.

Examples: I am one of the students who fought against hunger.
 Diana was the researcher whom the panel talked to.

5. When each, every, either, neither, someone, somebody, any one, anybody, everyone, everybody, no one are used as antecedents, the pronouns referring to them are singular. When the antecedent is either masculine or feminine, the pronoun must be masculine.

Examples: Everyone is required to speak his mind.
Somebody forgot his manners at home.

6. When one antecedent is singular, the other is plural, make your pronoun agree with the nearer antecedent.

Examples: Neither the boys nor his classmate spoke of his concerns.
 Either Jenny or the Reyeses will hold their political rally.

7. When two or more antecedent are joined by 'and', the pronoun must be plural.

Examples: Minda and Linda brought their A-games to the competition.

THE VERB TENSES AND ASPECTS

- TENSE- refers to the absolute location of an event or action in time, either the present or the past.
- ASPECT- refers to how an event or action is to be viewed with respect to time, rather than to its actual location in time.

		Aspect
		Simple	Perfect	Progressive	Perfect Progressive
		"tensed"	"tensed" have + Past Participle	"tensed" be + Present Participle	"tensed" have + PastP of be (been) + PresentP
Tense	Present	write/writes walk/walks	has/have written has/have walked	am/is/are writing am/is/are walking	has/have been writing has/have been walking
	Past	wrote walked	had written had walked	was/were writing was/were walking	had been writing had been walking
	Future	will write will walk	will have written will have walked	will be writing will be walking	will have been writing will have been walking

SIMPLE ASPECT- Any verb (in the past, present or future) in the indefinite (or simple) tense is said to be in the "indefinite aspect" (also called the "simple aspect"). Such verbs are used to describe actions but do not emphasize whether the action is complete or on-going

1. Simple Present Tense

- Habitual actions in the present:
 He goes to school on a daily basis.
 Jen talks with passion and wit.
- General timeless truths; such as physical laws or customs:
 Water freezes at 0 degrees centigrade.

GENERAL EDUCATION- ENGLISH

The sun sets in the west.

2. Simple Past Tense

- A definite single completed event/action in the past:
I saw my ex last week.
- Habitual or repeated action/event in the past:
It rained almost every day last March.

3. Simple Future Tense

- An action to take place at some definite future time:
I will top the LET in September.
- A future habitual action or state:
Starting 2018, Pui will wake up at 6:00 AM every day.

PROGRESSIVE ASPECT - core meaning of progressive aspect as being imperfective, meaning that it portrays an event in a way that allows for it to be incomplete, or somehow limited.

1. Present Progressive Tense

- Denote an action which is going on at the time of speaking:
He is talking about his thesis in a conference we speak.
Please wait as I am still eating.
- Extended present/A temporary situation:
He is still moving on from a relationship.

2. Past Progressive Tense

- An action in progress at a specific point of time in the past:
He was walking to school at 8:30 this morning.
He was taking acting classes last month.
- Past action simultaneous with some other event that is usually stated in the simple past.
Mae was texting her boyfriend when her mom entered the room.

3. Future Progressive Tense

- An action that will be in progress at a specific time in the future:
He will be taking a test at 8:00 A.M. tomorrow.
Froilan will be working for his paper for the next six months.
The Dance troupe will be performing on Broadway starting next month.

PERFECT ASPECT- The core meaning of the perfect is "prior," and it is used in relation to some other point in time. For instance, present perfect is used retrospectively to refer to a time prior to now

1. Present Perfect Tense

- A situation that began at a prior point in time and continues into the present:
She has been a school administrator since 2010.
I have loved him for five years now.
- A very recently completed action (often with just):
Lalli has just taken the test.
I have just submitted my papers.

2. Past Perfect Tense

- An action completed in the past prior to some other past event or time:
Mom had already left the house before I turned the TV on

3. Future Perfect Tense

- A future action that will be completed prior to a specific future time;
I will have finished all this work by tomorrow.

PERFECT PROGRESSIVE ASPECT

1. Present Perfect Progressive Tense

- A situation or habit that began in the past (recent or distant) and that continues up to the present (and possibly into the future):
Helo has been going out with Adele.
She has been reading the signs.

2. Past Perfect Progressive Tense

- An action or habit taking place over a period of time in the past prior to or interrupted by some other past event or time:
Many people had been swimming when the shark was sighted.
We had been planning to visit Cebu, but changed our minds after seeing a photo of Sto. Tomas, Davao del Norte.

3. Future Perfect Progressive

GENERAL EDUCATION- ENGLISH

- Durative or habitual action that is taking place in the present and that will continue into the future up until or through a specific future time:
On Christmas Eve, we will have been living in the same house for 10 years.

CONDITIONALS

A. ZERO CONDITIONALS

This is used in describing situations that are always true or factual. This is also termed REAL CONDITION.

IF CLAUSE	MAIN CLAUSE
SIMPLE PRESENT If you expose ice to sunlight,	SIMPLE PRESENT it melts.

B. FIRST CONDITIONALS

This is used in speculating situations that are possible to happen at present time or in the future. This is also termed as UNREAL BUT LIKELY CONDITION.

IF CLAUSE	MAIN CLAUSE
SIMPLE PRESENT If we dance our night away,	WILL + BASE FORM we will wake up late tomorrow.

C. SECOND CONDITIONALS

This is used in speculating situations that probably won't happen at present or in the future. This is also termed as UNREAL AND UNLIKELY CONDITION.

IF CLAUSE	MAIN CLAUSE
PAST TENSE If I were a boy,	WOULD + BASE FORM I would understand your situation.

D. THIRD CONDITIONALS

This is used in speculating situations that probably won't happen at present or in the future. This is also termed as UNREAL AND UNLIKELY CONDITION.

IF CLAUSE	MAIN CLAUSE
PAST PERFECT If I had the chance to change things,	WOULD + HAVE + PAST PARTICIPLE I would have taken every possible opportunity.

SENTENCE STRUCTURE

1. Clause- A clause is a group of words that may contain a subject and a predicate, and use as part of a sentence.

- Independent Clause (main clause)- is a clause that can stand alone because its meaning is complete.
- Dependent Clause (subordinate clause)- is a clause that cannot stand by itself because of its incomplete meaning.

EXAMPLE:

The cat is sleeping.

When the cat is sleeping.

When the cat is sleeping, the mice will play.

Although she was having a hard time, she managed to finish her studies.

- Dependent Clause (subordinate clause)- is a clause that cannot stand by itself because of its incomplete meaning.
 - a. Adjective Clause- modifies a noun or a pronoun by telling what kind or which.
The lady, who called for justice, won the case.

I spoke the truth that ruined our friendship.

- b. Adverb Clause- modifies an adjective, a verb, and another adverb.
He spoke as if he were telling the truth.

GENERAL EDUCATION- ENGLISH

The class concluded after the suggestions were analyzed.

2. Kinds of Sentences

A. SIMPLE SENTENCE- composed of one independent clause

- I fell in love twice.
- Linda and Minda were members of The Avengers
- She loved and betrayed me.

B. COMPOUND SENTENCE- is made up of two or more simple sentences. The two complete statements in a compound sentence are usually connected by a comma plus a coordinator (for, and, nor, but, or, yet, so).

- Neng is intelligent, so she strategically scams the bank.

C. COMPLEX SENTENCE- is made up of a simple sentence, and a clause that begins with a subordinator, such as the following:

after	if, even if	when, whenever
although, though	in order that	where, wherever
as	since	whether
because	that, so that	which, whichever
before	unless	while
even though	until	who
how	what, whatever	whose

- I changed my life because I needed change.
- Because you are beautiful inside and out,

D. COMPIUND-COMPLEX SENTENCE- is made up of two or more simple sentences, and one c more subordinating (dependent) clause.

- When the friendship was tested, Catriona moved on in with her life, and Kir found peace.
- I will get to watch television, but I have to clean up the dishes after we finis eating.

FAULTY PARALLELISM

Parallelism- Words in a pair or series should have parallel structure. By balancing the items in a pair or series so that they have the same kind of structure, you will make the sentences clearer and easier to read.

Nonparallel / Non-Balanced

Olympic athletes usually like practicing, competing and to eat ice cream sandwiches.

Parallel or Balanced

Olympic athletes usually like _____ ice cream sandwiches.

Nonparallel/Not Balanced

The game-show contestant was told to be cheerful, charming, and with enthusiasm.

Parallel or Balanced

The game-show was told to be _____.

RUN-ON SENTENCES

A run-on is two complete thoughts that are run together with no adequate sign given to mark the break between them. Some run-ons have no punctuation at all to mark the break between thoughts

1. Fused Sentence- in which two or more sentences joined with no punctuation.
 - He went to the gym the machines there were new.

Correcting Run-ons:

A. By Separation

a. Full Separation- using a period

- He went to the gym. The machines there were new.

GENERAL EDUCATION- ENGLISH

b. Partial Separation- using a semicolon

- He went to the gym; the machines there were new.

B. By Coordination

- Using the coordinating conjunctions (for, and, nor, but, or, yet, so)
 - He went to the gym, and the machines there were new.

C. By Subordination

- Using subordinating conjunctions
 - He went to the gym because the machines there were new.

2. Comma Splice-which have two or more sentences separated only by commas rather than by commas and conjunctions.

- I love to read books, I enjoy the works of Agatha Christie.

Correcting Run-ons

A. By Separation

a. Full Separation- using a period

- I love to read books. I enjoy the works of Agatha Christie.

b. Partial Separation- using a semicolon

- I love to read books; I enjoy the works of Agatha Christie.

B. By Coordination

- Using the coordinating conjunctions (for, and, nor, but, or, yet, so)
 - I love to read book, and I enjoy the works of Agatha Christie.

C. By Subordination

- Using subordinating conjunctions
 - I love to read books because I enjoy the works of Agatha Christie.

ERRORS IN USING MODIFIERS

1. Misplaced Modifier

A modifier is misplaced if it appears to modify the wrong part of the sentence, or if we cannot be certain what part of the sentence the writer intended to modify.

The man left his dog with the top hat and pipe. (Confusing)

The man with the top hat and pipe left his dog. (Clear)

On her way home, Jan found a gold man's watch. (Confusing)

On her way home, Jan found a man's gold watch. (Clear)

2. Squinting Modifier

A squinting modifier is an ambiguous modifier (commonly an adverb) that appears to qualify the words both before and after it.

Instructors who cancel classes rarely are reprimanded.

Unclear meaning: Do instructors cancel classes rarely or is the action reprimanded rarely?

Instructors who cancel classes are rarely reprimanded.

Clear meaning: The act of canceling classes is not frequently observed.

Saving a life often made him feel proud.

Unclear meaning: Did he save a life often or did the action often make him feel proud?

Saving a life made him feel proud often.

Clear meaning: He feels proud often because he saves lives.

3. Dangling Modifier (an error in sentence structure)

A dangling modifier does not sensibly modify anything in its sentence.

After returning from the dead, my sister took the plants outside.

After returning from the dead, the plants were taken outside by my sister.

With a sigh of disappointment, the expensive dress was returned to the rack.

With a sigh of disappointment, she returned the expensive dress to the rack.

General Concepts of Literature

LITERARY STANDARDS

- Universality- appeals to everyone regardless of labels
- Artistry- has aesthetic appeal
- Intellectual Value- stimulates critical thinking and abstract reasoning
- Suggestiveness- unravels and conjures man's emotions
- Spiritual Value- elevates the spirit and soul- the power to inspire
- Permanence- endures across time; Timeliness, Timelessness
- Style- presents peculiar ways evident on the formation of ideas

GENERAL CLASSIFICATIONS OF LITERATURE

- According to Structure

GENERAL EDUCATION- ENGLISH

Fiction- literary work of imaginative narration most likely fashioned to entertain and to make readers think and feel.

Non- Fiction- Literary work of real life narration or exposition based on history and facts whose main thrust is intellectual appeal to convey facts, theories, generalizations, or concept about a particular topic

- According to Form

Prose- literary work that is written within the common flow of language in sentences and in paragraphs which give information, relate events, express ideas, or present opinions.

Poetry- Literary work expressed in verse, measure, rhythm, sound, and imaginative language.

GENRES OF LITERATURE

- Fiction- Narrative in prose that shows an imaginative recreation and reconstruction of life.
- Poetry- A patterned form of written expression of ideas in concentrated, and rhythmical terms that often contain the elements of sense, structure, and sound.
- Essay- An essay is a piece of writing, usually from an author's personal point of view. Essays are non-fictional but often subjective; while expository, they can also include narrative.
- Drama- a composition that presents story told entirely in a dialogue and action, and written with the intention of its eventual performance before an audience.

FICTION as a genre

- Narrative in prose that shows an imaginative recreation and reconstruction of life and presents human life in two levels:

Objective Reality- human actions and experiences

Subjective Reality- human apprehension and comprehension

TYPES OF FICTION

- | | | | |
|----------|------------|-----------------|----------|
| - Fables | - Legends | - Folk Tales | - Novels |
| - Myth | - Parables | - Short Stories | |

ELEMENTS OF FICTION

- SETTING- the time and place that the story occurs.
- CHARACTER- representations of the human beings in the story
 - Principality: Protagonist; Antagonist
 - Development: Dynamic; Static

- Personality: Round; Flat

- PLOT- sequence of events in the story.

- Exposition- sets the scene by introducing the characters and settings
- Crisis- establishes curiosity, uncertainty, and tension
- Climax- leads to an affirmation, decision, action, and realization–
The peak of the story
- Falling action- the finishing of things right after the climax
- Denouement- strands of the plot are drawn together and matters are explained or resolved.
- Ending- the end of the story

General Types of Plot

- Linear Plot- moves with natural sequence of events where actions are arranged sequentially.
- Circular Plot- a plot where linear development of the story merges with an interruption in the chronological order to show an event that happened in the past
- In Media Res- a plot where the story commences in the middle part of the action
- Deus Ex Machina- an unexpected power or event saving a seemingly hopeless situation, especially as a unnatural plot device in fiction.

- CONFLICT- Opposition of persons or conflict of the story. The basic tension, predicament, or challenge of the story.

Types of Conflict

- | | |
|--------------------|-------------------------|
| person vs. person | person vs. nature |
| person vs. society | person vs. supernatural |
| person vs. self | |

- POINT OF VIEW- Determines the narrator of the story.

Types of Points of View

1. In the first person point of view, one of the story's characters serves as a narrator and readers watch the story unfold through that character's eyes.
2. The second person point of view is relatively rare because it makes the reader a character in the story and directly addresses the reader as 'you'.
3. In the third person point of view, the narrator is someone outside the story, who frequently uses pronouns, like 'he,' 'she,' and 'they,' to describe the characters. The third person point of view is divided into three subcategories:

GENERAL EDUCATION- ENGLISH

- The objective third person, in which the narrator knows or reveals nothing about the characters' internal thoughts, feelings, and motivations but sticks to the external facts of the story.
- The limited third person, in which the narrator describes the internal thoughts, feelings, and motivations of one character, usually the main character.
- The omniscient third person, in which the narrator knows and at least partially reveals the internal thoughts, feelings, and motivations of all the characters.

Persona- it is the voice chosen by the author for a particular artistic purpose.

- f. THEME- Is the significant value or truth about life and its nature which takes place in the illustrations of the actions, preoccupations, and decisions of the characters.

POETRY as genre

- A patterned form of written expression of ideas in concentrated, and rhythmical terms that often contain the elements of sense, structure, and sound.

TYPES OF POETRY

- Narrative Poetry- tells a story in verse
- Lyric Poetry- thoughts and feelings of the speaker. Intended to be sung
- Dramatic Poetry- written to be presented or acted on stage

a. Narrative Poetry

- Epic- long narrative poem about a character who embodies the values of the society
- Metrical Tale/Metrical Romance- a medieval verse based on legends, chivalric love and adventure, or the supernatural.
- Ballad- a simple narrative poem of a story, composed in short stanzas and adapted for melodious recital.

b. Lyric Poetry

- Ode- expresses exultation or emotional enthusiasm. Expresses lofty praises of a person or event.
- Elegy- deals with grief over the passing of a person or a particular way of life.
- Sonnet- consists of 14 lines with an exact rhyme scheme.

Petrarchan- octave- abbaabba

- sestet- cdecde or cdcdcd

Shakespearean- abab cdcd efef gg

- Song- differs from other poem in that it is intended primarily to be sung. It has a melodious quality required by the singing voice.
- Simple Lyric- the category of all those lyrical poems that do not properly belong under any of the other category.

c. Dramatic Poetry

- Any story written in verse and in dialogue that is intended to be presented and acted on stage in front of an audience.

ELEMENTS OF POETRY

a. SENSE

- Denotative and Connotative meaning.
- Imagery- sensory details
- Figurative Languages- descriptive purposes

b. SOUND

- Tone Color- achieved through repetitions
- Rhythm- beats created by the arrangement of stressed and unstressed syllables
- Meter- a regular reoccurrence of a rhythm. Measured in poetic foot.
 - Iambic: destroy (unaccented/accented)
 - Trochaic: topsy (accented/unaccented)
 - Anapestic: intervene (unaccented/unaccented/accented)
 - Dactylic: merrily (accented/unaccented/unaccented)
- Eye rhyme- rhymes only when spelled, not when pronounced. For example, "through" and "rough."
- End rhyme- the most common type, is the rhyming of the final syllables of a line.
- Feminine rhyme- applies to the rhyming of one or more unstressed syllables, such as "dicing" and "enticing." Ambrose Bierce's "The Day of Wrath" employs feminine rhyme almost exclusively.

GENERAL EDUCATION- ENGLISH

- Half rhyme- is the rhyming of the ending consonant sounds in a word (such as “tell” with “toll,” or “sopped” with “leapt”). Identical rhyme employs the same word, identically in sound and in sense, twice in rhyming positions.
- Internal rhyme- is rhyme within a single line of verse When a word from the middle of a line is rhymed with a word at the end of the line.
- Masculine rhyme- describes those rhymes ending in a stressed syllable, such as “hells” and “bells.” It is the most common type of rhyme in English poetry.
- Monorhyme- is the use of only one rhyme in a stanza.

c. STRUCTURE

- A manner in which words are arranged and parts (verse and/or stanza) are organized to form a whole poem.

POETIC FEET

- Iambic: destroy (unaccented/accented)
- Trochaic: topsy (accented/unaccented)
- Anapestic: intervene (unaccented/unaccented/accented)
- Dactylic: merrily (accented/unaccented/unaccented)

ESSAY as a genre

- An essay is a piece of writing, usually from an author's personal point of view. Essays are non-fictional but often subjective; while expository, they can also include narrative. Essays can be literary criticism, political manifestos, learned arguments, observations of daily life, recollections, and reflections of the author.
 - Formal or Impersonal- deals with serious or formal subject.
 - Informal or Personal- cover light, ordinary, or event trivial subject matters.

DRAMA as a genre

- Is a composition that presents story told entirely in a dialogue and action, and written with the intention of its eventual performance before an audience.

Types of Drama

- Tragedy- a play that deals with the somber and serious aspect of life. Ends unhappily with the protagonist's death.

- Comedy- a play that deals with human folly and ends happily.
- Farce- a ridiculous play with humor that requires rude physical action for the sake of the comic spirit.
- Melodrama- is a form of play that presents stereotyped characters and a conflict between good and evil. The good characters are favored by destiny in the end.

OTHER CONCEPTS IN DRAMA

- ARETE, ARISTEIA: excellence; a scene in the dramatic conventions of epic poetry as in the Iliad, where a hero in battle has his finest moments
- HUBRIS: arrogance; excessive pride toward or defiance of the gods, leading to nemesis.
- HAMARTIA: a fatal flaw leading to the downfall of a tragic hero or heroine.
- PERIPETEIA: a sudden and unexpected change of fortune or reverse of circumstance
- ANAGNORISIS: is a moment in a plot or story, specifically a tragedy where the main character recognizes or identifies his/her true nature, or that of the other character's true identity, or discovers true nature of his situation, or that of the others, leading to the resolution of the story.
- KATHARSIS: when literature provides strong emotional experiences that ultimately result in a sense of purification.

FIGURES OF SPEECH

1. Simile is an expressed comparison between two similar things introduced by like, as, as if, than, seems, or similar to. The things compared differ in most ways, but are strikingly alike in some ways. Some examples are:
 - Writing is like pulling the trigger of a gun; if you are not loaded, nothing happens.
 - She sings as if mere speech had taken fire. (Yeats)
 - The human mind should be like a good hotel -open the year round. (Phelps)
2. Metaphor is an implied comparison of unlike subjects without like or as.
 - All the world's a stage, and all the men and women merely players.
 - God is my Rock and Fortress. (Psalm 31:3)
3. Personification is the figure of speech in which some human characteristic is attributed to an inanimate thing.

GENERAL EDUCATION- ENGLISH

- But love is blind and lovers cannot see what pretty follies they themselves commit. (Shakespeare)
 - Time as he grows old teaches many lessons. (Aesop)
 - Let the floods clap their hands. (Psalm 98:8)
4. Periphrasis refers to the use of excessive language and surplus words to convey a meaning that could otherwise be conveyed with fewer words and in more direct a manner.
- When I am with you, my toes tingle and my knees are weak. The world is a better place altogether and I find myself giving my fortune to beggars, and I am a beggar before you, craving a smile, a whim.
5. Litotes is a deliberate understatement used to affirm by negating its opposite.
- Edgar Allan Poe is not a bad writer.
 - "We made a difference. We made the city stronger, we made the city freer, and we left her in good hands. All in all, not bad, not bad at all."
6. Apostrophe is an address to the absent as if present or the inanimate as if human.
- O Liberty! Liberty! How many crimes are committed in thy name! (Madame Roland)
 - "Oh! Stars and clouds and winds, ye are all about to mock me; if ye really pity me, crush sensation and memory; let me become as nought; but if not, depart, depart, and leave me in darkness." ('Frankenstein' by Mary Shelly)
7. Allusion is a brief and indirect reference to a person, place, thing or idea of historical, cultural, literary or political significance. It does not describe in detail the person or thing to which it refers.
- Don't act like a Romeo in front of her."
 - She is definitely the Helen in our group.
8. Antithesis refers to the equating or balancing of two opposite ideas. To be an antithesis, a sentence should have contradicting words positioned in a balanced way in a phrase or a clause.
- There is a time to sow and there is a time to reap.
 - To err is human, to forgive, divine." (by Alexander Pope)
9. Hyperbole is an exaggeration for the purpose of emphasis or poetic effect. It is an overstatement without intention of deception. Used judiciously, it is very effective. This figure of speech is often quite appropriate also for prose, as in humorous fiction.
- My eyes shed streams of tears. (Psalm 119:136)

- I think of you a million times a day.
 - When he told me the joke, I almost died laughing.
 - There were mountains of food at the party.
10. Irony, in general, is a discrepancy or disparity between what seems and what is. The three common forms are:
- Verbal Irony is a discrepancy between what the speaker says and what he means; he says one thing and means the opposite.
 - To save himself and leave the children - that's a fine way for a man to act.
 - It was very kind of you to remind me of my humiliation.
 - Irony of Situation is the discrepancy between expectation and result, intention and outcome, illusion and reality.
 - The boy failed in Math although his mother is a Math teacher.
 - A fire station burns down.
 - Dramatic Irony is so called because its most effective use is in a theatre, but it is also found in other forms of fiction. It is a discrepancy between the meaning intended by the fictional character and another meaning that the audience (or reader) can simultaneously find in the same words.
11. Synecdoche is a figure of speech in which the writer names a part when he means the whole, or the whole when he means only a part. The following are examples:
- Your wheel is dope.
 - Describing a complete vehicle as "wheels"
 - The resort's entrance fee is only P1.00 per head.
 - Referring to people by a particular body part
12. Metonymy It is a figure of speech that replaces the name of a thing with the name of something else with which it is closely associated.
- The pen is mightier than the sword. (Pen refers to written words, and sword to military force.)
 - Let me give you a hand. (hand means help)
13. Paradox is the presentation of true but seemingly contradictory ideas.
- On his fourth birthday, he will be 16 years old.
 - "The child is the father of the man."
14. Oxymoron is a compact paradox, one in which two successive words apparently contradict each other.

GENERAL EDUCATION- ENGLISH

- The spy boarded the plane with studied carelessness.
- The pleasing plague stole on me. (William Whitehead)
- Life is full of constant inconstancy.

15. Climax is the arrangement of words or ideas according to their degree of importance; thus, the last set appears most valuable.

- “I came, I saw, I conquered.” (Julius Caesar)
- Look! It's a bird! It's a plane! It's Superman!

16. Anti-climax is the real apparent or ludicrous decrease in the importance or impressiveness of what is said. It is opposite to a climax.

- She is a great writer, a mother and a good humorist.
- He lost his family, his job, and his house plants.

Facts about English Literature

Geoffrey Chaucer	1st Great English Humorist and Realist
Canterbury Tales	1st Serious Collection of Short Stories in English
Beowulf	Oldest English Epic
Caedmon	Father of English Song
Ralph Waldo Emerson	Spokesperson of Transcendentalism
Widsith	Oldest Elegy (7th century)
Venerable Bede	Greatest Anglo-Saxon Scholar
Morte d'Arthur	Last Medieval Chronicle of the Arthurian Legend
Renaissance	Golden Age of English Literature
King James Bible	Most Influential Book in the History of English Civilization
John Donne	Greatest Metaphysical Poet
Robert Burns	National Poet of Scotland
Charles Dickens	England's Best-Loved Novelist
Geoffrey Chaucer	Father of English literature
William Shakespeare	Father of English Drama
Venerable Bede	Father of English History
Christopher Marlowe	Father of English Tragedy
Francis Bacon	Father of Inductive Reasoning
	Father of English Essay
Michel De Montaigne	Father of Essay (Popularized Essay as a literature)