John Dewey believed that “the only true education comes through the stimulation of the child’s powers by the demands of the social situations in which he finds himself.”

158. What theory states that identical instructional environments, methods and resources may be effective for others because of the differences in the learner’s biological and developmental set of characteristics?

A. Learning Style Theory

B. Reading Readiness Theory

C. Multiple Intelligence Theory

D. Emotional Intelligence Theory

Learning Style is the biologically and developmentally imposed set of characteristics that make the same teaching method wonderful for some and terrible for others (Dunn and Griggs, 1988).

Multiple Intelligence Theory is a theory of intelligence that differentiates it into specific (primarily sensory) ‘modalities’, rather than seeing intelligence as dominated by a single general ability. This model was proposed by Howard Gardner in his 1983 book Frames of Mind: The Theory of Multiple Intelligences.

Emotional Intelligence Theory often referred to as EI is about having the ability to understand and manage the emotions of yourself and also those around you.

Reading Readiness has been defined as the point at which a person is ready to learn to read and the time during which a person transitions from being a non-reader into a reader.

159. In a school where academic performance is low, which of these alternative actions is LEAST effective?

A. Putting up a functional Educational Management Information System (EMIS)

B. Establishing a well- equipped Learning Management Resource Center (LRC)

C. Upgrading teaching competencies through in – service training.

D. Producing support instructional materials

EMIS is an organized group of information and documentation services that collects, stores processes analyzes and disseminates information for educational planning and management. It is a collection of component parts that include inputs processes outputs and feed backs that are integrated to achieve a specific objective. It is a system for managing a large body of data and information that can be readily retrieved, processed, analyzed, and made available for use and dissemination.

Learning Resource Center (LRC) is a resource for student learning and intellectual exploration. It is a place where students can find space for quiet study, as well as group work and collaboration, and room to plan, sort, organize and work on projects and reports.

- A. All school children are friendly
- B. All children 6-12 years old are enrolled in elementary schools
- C. All children complete their elementary education within six years
- D. All grade six students pass the division, regional and national tests

Child-Friendly School System (CFSS)

Accomplishing specific targets

The preceding sections outline the actions that we need to take towards establishing a child-friendly school. However, this is just the first step. We must also ensure that our actions are effective enough to help us realize desired outcomes for children in the context of the child-friendly school system.

We may also call these desired outcomes "targets". The following are the targets set by the Department of Education (Dep Ed) for itself. The ideal, of course, is to aim for universal coverage or 100% attainment of the following targets:

- All children 6-12 years old are enrolled in elementary school.
- All children complete their elementary education within six years.
- All Grade 6 students pass the division, regional or national tests.

A. Able to read, write and compute

B. Able to read, write letters and solve problems

C. Able to read, write, compute and apply these skills in their daily lives

D. Able to read with understanding, write one’s thoughts and compute word problems

FUNCTIONAL LITERACY. A term initially defined for UNESCO by William S. Gray (The Teaching of Reading and Writing, 1956, p. 21) as the training of adults to ‘meet independently the reading and writing demands placed on them’. Currently, the phrase describes those approaches to LITERACY which stress the acquisition of appropriate verbal, cognitive, and computational skills to accomplish practical ends in culturally specific settings.

168. Which of the following is NOT a domain of the competency-based standards for teachers?

A. Resource planning

- A. this is in keeping with indigenization of the curriculum
- B. folk knowledge is crucial in facing the basics of daily living
- C. folk knowledge is included in the National Achievement Test
- D. teaching folk knowledge is a mandate of DepEd

Folk knowledge refers to everyday, commonsense understandings accumulated through ordinary human experience. This is what some have called implicit knowledge, which draws heavily from traditional approaches and understandings of conflict. It turns out that a great deal of knowledge is unconsciously learned rather than developed through scholarly study and systematic observation. In many cultures, because conflicts are seen as events in the rhythm of social life, knowledge is largely a matter of commonsense, intuition, and personal experience.

172. Children learn how to open a coconut and other common chores in a coconut farm. In this instance, culture is transmitted by _____.
