LET REVIEWER UNIVERSITY

1. Which hypothesis of Krashen's Monitor Model proposes that when learners are exposed to grammatical features a little beyond their current (i.e., $I + 1$), those features are "acquired". Acquisition results from comprehensible input, which is made understandable with the help provided by the context.

- A. acquisition/learning hypothesis
- B. natural order hypothesis
- C. input hypothesis
- D. affective filter hypothesis

RATIO: Input hypothesis proposes that when learners are exposed to grammatical features a little beyond their current (i.e., $I + 1$), those features are "acquired".

2. All of the following are implications of Krashen's Monitor model except _____.

- A. Teachers should correct errors during the time they are committed as error correction is valuable.
- B. Teachers should not insist on learners conversing before they feel comfortable in doing so.
- C. Teachers should not expect learners to learn "late structures" such as third person singular early.
- D. Teachers consider grammatical teaching is of limited value.

RATIO: On the spot error-correction may have negative effects in terms of anxiety and inhibitions.

3. They view the language as a system of related elements or "building blocks" for the encoding of meaning, the elements being phonemes (sounds), morphemes (words), tag memes (phrases/sentences/clauses).

- A. structuralists
- B. transformationalists
- C. functionalists
- D. interactionalists

RATIO: Structuralists believe that language is primarily vocal; language is system of systems, and language is arbitrary.

4. Which of the following is a view of interactionalist?

- A. Language is primarily vocal.
- B. Language is creative.
- C. Language emphasizes the meaning and functions rather than the structures
- D. Language is a vehicle for establishing interpersonal relationship.

RATIO: Interactionalists believe that language is a vehicle for establishing interpersonal relations.

5. Which theory on language teaching has given birth to the methods that are learner-centered, allowing learners to work in pairs or groups in information gap tasks and problem-solving activities where such communication strategies as information sharing, negotiation of meaning, and interaction are used.

- A. Structuralism
- B. Behaviorism
- C. Cognitivism
- D. Functionalism

RATIO: The functional view of language has resulted in communication-based methods such as Communicative Language Teaching/Communicative Approach, Notional/Functional Approach, Task-Based Language Teaching.

6. It is a branch of linguistics that deals with how words combine to form phrases, phrases combine to form clauses, and clauses conjoin to make sentences.

- A. morphology
- B. syntax
- C. semantics
- D. pragmatics

RATIO: Syntax is a branch of linguistics that deals with how words combine to form phrases, phrases combine to form clauses, and clauses conjoin to make sentences.

7. What is shown in the systematic variation of /t/ such as /t/ in top is aspirated, /t/ in stop is released, and /t/ in pot is unreleased?

- A. phoneme
- B. consonant
- C. variation
- D. allophone

RATIO: Allophones are variants or other ways of producing a phoneme.

8. Which of the following sounds are produced by bringing the articulators near each other such that the flow of air is impeded but not completely blocked. The air flow through the narrow opening creates friction.

- A. p,b,t,d,k,g
- B. f,v,θ,ð,s,z,ʃ,ʒ,h
- C. m,n,ŋ
- D. l,r

RATIO: These sounds are called fricatives which are produced by bringing the articulators near each other such that the flow of air is impeded but not completely blocked.

9. What is illustrated in following example? In English, the statement “Marian is a linguist” ends with a fall in pitch, while as a question, “Marian is a linguist?” the pitch goes up.

- A. stress
- B. juncture
- C. intonation
- D. supra segmental

RATIO: Intonation is the rise and fall of pitch which may contrast meanings of sentences

10. Which of the following is an example derivational morpheme?

- A. helpful
- B. stays
- C. eaten
- D. longest

RATIO: Full in helpful is a derivational morpheme which usually changes the form class of the words to which they are attached.

11. The words “gym, mike, and TV” are formed through _____.

- A. clipping
- B. back formation
- C. root creation
- D. compounding

RATIO: Clipping or clipped form is a shortened form of a pre-existing forms e.g. gym < gymnasium; mike < microphone, TV < television.

12. What morphophonemic process is involved in which units that occur in some contexts are “lost” in others such as “l i b a r y” instead of “l i b r a r y”?

- A. assimilation
- B. dissimilation
- C. epenthesis

D. metathesis

RATIO: Dissimilation is a process that results in two sounds becoming less alike in articulatory or acoustic terms; a process in which units which occur in some contexts are “lost” in others; e.g. “l i b a r y” instead of “l i b r a r y”

13. Which syntactic structure is shown in the following examples? responsible officers, trusted friend

- A. predication
- B. complementation
- C. modification
- D. coordination

RATIO: Structure of modification has two components; a head word and a modifier.

14. What is made use in this example “I told Paul to close the door and he did so”?

- A. homonymy
- B. anaphora
- C. deixis
- D. hyponymy

RATIO: Anaphora is a linguistic expression that refers to another linguistic expression (point backwards). The pronoun refers back to its antecedent.

15. What category of illocutionary act is demonstrated in the following example?

Recession will worsen in Europe in the next five years.

- A. representative
- B. commissive
- C. directive
- D. expressive

RATIO: A representative is an utterance used to describe some state of affairs: acts of stating, asserting, denying, confessing, admitting, notifying, concluding, predicting, and so on.

- A. are repeating what was said to them, and should take note of them
- B. do not know the past tense forms of those verbs, and experience difficulty
- C. induce the rules for the past tense from the language to which they are exposed
- D. repeat the teacher's mistakes, and those errors are very hard to undo

RATIO: The term "overgeneralization" is most often used in connection with language acquisition by children. For example, a young child may say "foots" instead of "feet," overgeneralizing the morphological rule for making plural nouns.

19. This type of language is used to describe the kind of language a learner uses at a given time, that is, his version of a given language, which deviates in certain ways from the language of a mature speaker.

- A. dialect
- B. native language
- C. holophrastic speech
- D. interlanguage

RATIO: Interlanguage is a type of language (or linguistic system) used by second- and foreign-language learners who are in the process of learning a target language.

20. According to cognitivists, errors in second language learning is considered _____.

- A. basis for testing
- B. part of learning process
- C. as proofs of unsystematic way of learning
- D. not part of natural progression in acquisition of English

RATIO: Error and error correction can be valuable when it places the errors into the students' focal awareness.

21. What aptly describes "universal grammar"?

- A. language used for communication by people who speak different first languages
- B. rules applicable to all human languages
- C. language with the same vocabulary, grammar, and pronunciation
- D. rules of grammar that distinguish one language from the others

RATIO: The concept of universal grammar states that all languages are built upon a common grammar.

22. At the border of two countries there is a port where fishermen work. The fishermen do not speak the same language, so they communicate using one that has been invented but only for the purpose of trade. This scenario most accurately describes which of the following types of language?

- A. a dialect
- B. a creole
- C. a pidgin
- D. a regionalism

RATIO: A pidgin is a simplified language that is developed as a means of communication between two or more groups who do not have a language in common.

23. If the second language learner "assimilates", then he _____.

- A. maintains its own life style and values and rejects those of the target language group
- B. adapts to the life style and values of the target language group but maintains its own life style and values for the intragroup use.
- C. gives up his own life style and values and adopts those of the target language group
- D. maximizes the use of his first language and the target language

RATIO: When a language learner assimilates, he considers the target language as his own language.

24. The following are the areas of knowledge and skills of communicative competence except _____.

- A. grammatical competence
- B. sociolinguistic competence
- C. discourse competence
- D. structural competence

RATIO: The following are the areas of communicative competence: grammatical, sociolinguistic, discourse, and sociolinguistic.

25. Speaker A's final remark functions as _____.

Speaker A: That's the telephone.

Speaker B: I'm in the bath.

Speaker A: OK.

- A. a request to answer the phone
- B. an excuse for not complying
- C. acceptance of an excuse
- D. sarcasm

26. What is strategy is used by the second language learner in the following situation". "The student forgot the English term "train station". He used the phrase "the place for trains" instead.

- A. inference
- B. paraphrase
- C. generalization
- D. adaptation

RATIO: Paraphrasing is a restatement of a text or passage giving the meaning in another form.

- C. Children should be responsible with what trick they do with their siblings.
- D. Childhood relationships between siblings were sometimes painful.

SUMMARY:

When Eddie saw his sister beating his dog with a stick, he felt hate like a caged, angry beast in his chest. He could not cry to his sister because she had a weak heart. He recalled the things his sister did to him. For Eddie, his sister, Delia was the meanest creature he knew. He remembered when he was furiously hit by his sister when she learned that the leg of her doll was accidentally torn by him.

Nothing Eddie did ever pleased her. Destroying willfully anything he liked had become a habit for her. She even told Berto to kill his monkey because it snickered at her one morning, while she was brushing her teeth.

Eddie did not tell anything when she told Father that she did not like Eddie's pigeon house because it stank and he had to give away his pigeons and Berto had to chop the house into kindling wood. He learned how to hold himself because he knew they had to put up with her whims to keep her calm and quiet. But when she dumped his butterflies into a waste can and burned them in the backyard, he realized that she was spiting him.

Eddie got a big centipede that Berto found under the stack he chopped. He made sure that it was dead and placed it in a white cloth. He unwrapped and threw it on the lap of his sister whom he hated so much. His sister collapsed. Her voice dragged off into a painstaking moan. Eddie was engulfed by a sudden feeling of pity and guilt. He cried kneeling before her, telling her that the centipede was dead.

- C. the love of Julia for Alfredo
- D. the love of Alfredo for Esperanza

SUMMARY:

TO A LOST ONE

Angela Manalang-Gloria

I shall haunt you O my lost one, as the twilight
Haunts a re-entangled trail,
And your dreams will linger strangely with the music
Of a phantom lover’s tale,
You shall not forget, for I am past forgetting,
I shall come to you again

With the starlight and the scent of white champacas,
And the melody of rain.
You shall not forget. Dust will peer into your Window, tragic-eyed and still,
And unbidden, startle you into remembrance
With its hand upon the still.
