1. Rubric as a measuring instrument that is best use in assessing _____

- A. Sentence structure
- B. Oral recitation
- C. Multiple choice test
- D. Dictation test

TEACHER

A rubric is a scoring tool that explicitly represents the performance expectations for an assignment or piece of work. A rubric divides the assigned work into component parts and provides clear descriptions of the characteristics of the work associated with each component, at varying levels of mastery. Rubrics can be used for a wide array of assignments: papers, projects, oral presentations, artistic performances, group projects, etc. Rubrics can be used as scoring or grading guides, to provide formative feedback to support and guide ongoing learning efforts, or both.

Essay Rubric

Directions: Your essay will be graded based on this rubric. Consequently, use this rubric as a guide when writing your essay and check it again before you submit your essay.

2. In developmental reading, this pertains to the familiarity of the students toward the sounds of the language.

A. Phonemic Awareness

B. Phonology

C. Syntax

D. Semantics

TEACHER

3. In development reading, this pertains to the ability of the learner to relate the written symbols to its corresponding sound.

- A. Phonemic Awareness
- B. Phonics
- C. Syntax
- D. Semantics

TEACHER

Phonemic awareness is the ability to hear, identify, move or change sounds, called phonemes, in spoken words. Phonemic awareness is an important basic skill that gets students ready to develop into readers. Phonemic awareness is usually taught during kindergarten and beginning first grade. Phonemic awareness includes six basic components:

Rhyming: Identifying words that rhyme or producing words that rhyme such as, “hat” and “pat” or, “car” and “far.”

Isolation: Identifying a specific sound in a word such as, “What is the beginning sound in the ‘word ball’?” /b/. (Please note that the letter between slashes such as /b/ represents the sound the letter “b” makes when spoken.)

Sound isolation for ending or middle sounds is more difficult, but children also need to be able to identify these sounds. For example: “What is the ending sound in the word ‘tap’?” Answer: /p/. Or, “What is the middle sound in ‘cup’?” Answer: /u/.

Segmentation: Pulling apart the sounds in a word in order. For example: “What sounds do you hear in the word ‘lip’?” Answer: /l/ /i/ /p/. Deletion: Taking a sound off of a spoken word such as, “Say the word ‘sit’ without the /s/.” Answer: “it.”

Substitution: Changing a sound in a word to another sound. For example: “My word is ‘pin.’ Change the /p/ to /w/. What is the new word?” Answer: “win.”

Blending: Putting together sounds to make a word. For example: “Here are the sounds in a word /m/ /a/ /t/. What is the word?” Answer: “mat.”

4. Which hypothesis of Krashen's Monitor Model proposes that when learners are exposed to grammatical features a little beyond their current (i.e., $I + 1$), those features are “acquired”. Acquisition results from comprehensible input, which is made understandable with the help provided by the context.

- A. acquisition/learning hypothesis
- B. natural order hypothesis
- C. input hypothesis
- D. affective filter hypothesis

TEACHER

Acquisition-Learning Hypothesis

Asserts there are two ways in which communication in a second language develops: language acquisition and language learning. language acquisition has much in common with the way children develop their first language (L1) in that it occurs subconsciously when the acquirer finds a need for communicating with others. Language learning on the other hand, involves explicit learning with direct instruction about the rules of the language.

Monitor Hypothesis

Learners acquire grammatical structures in a natural order, but conscious language rules are not developed until later. Once a student has conscious knowledge of grammatical structures, they are able to edit, or self-monitor, oral and written language. This process requires adequate time to develop.

TEACHER

Natural Order

Learners acquire the rules of language in a predictable sequence. “What is learned early in one language is learned early by others.” (Lightbrown and Spada (1996)

Comprehensible Input

Learners will best acquire language when given appropriate input. Comprehensible Input is easy to understand but still challenges the learner to infer meaning just beyond their level of language competence, often referred to as “ $i+1$ ”. Vygotsky’s zone of proximal development supports this hypothesis where in students must go beyond what they already know and build their new understanding on that foundation

Affective Filter

Learners require an environment where they feel safe to take risks necessary to learn the language. A learner’s emotional state will affect their receptiveness to comprehensible input.

TEACHER

5. All of the following are implications of Krashen's Monitor Model EXCEPT ____.

- A. Teachers should correct errors during the time they are committed as error correction is valuable.
- B. Teachers should not insist on learners conversing before they feel comfortable in doing so.
- C. Teachers should not expect learners to learn “late structures” such as third person singular early.
- D. Teachers consider grammatical teaching is of limited value.

TEACHER

6. They view the language as a system of related elements or “building blocks” for the encoding of meaning, the elements being phonemes (sounds), morphemes (words), tagmemes (phrases/sentences/clauses).

- A. structuralists
- B. transformationalists
- C. functionalists
- D. interactionalists

● STRUCTURALISTS

- ▣ Believe that language can be described in terms observable and verifiable data as it is being used
- ▣ Language is a system of speech sounds used for human communication.
- ▣ Language is primarily VOCAL.
- ▣ Language is a system of systems.
- ▣ Sounds are arranged in certain fixed order to form meaningful words.
Ex: no words starts in bz- lr- or zl but, there are spr- and str-
- ▣ Language is a system of systems.
- ▣ Words are arranged to form meaningful sentences.
Ex: subject – verb- object
- ▣ Language is a system of systems.
- ▣ Language is a system of structurally related elements:
 - ▣ Phonemes – sounds
 - ▣ Morphemes – words
 - ▣ Tagmemes – phrases & sentences/clauses

TEACHER

● TRANSFORMATIONALISTS

- ▣ Believe that language is a system of knowledge made manifest in linguistic forms but innate and universal
- ▣ Language is a mental phenomenon.
- ▣ Language is INNATE. (LAD - Language Acquisition Device)
- ▣ Language is UNIVERSAL.
- ▣ Language is CREATIVE.

TEACHER

● INTERACTIONALISTS

- ▣ Believe that language is a vehicle for establishing interpersonal relations and for performing social transactions between individuals.
- ▣ Language is a tool for creating and maintaining social interactions through CONVERSATIONS.

● FUNCTIONALISTS

- ▣ Expressing emotions
- ▣ Persuade people
- ▣ Asking and giving information
- ▣ Making people do things for others

TEACHER

7. Which of the following is a view of a interactionalist?

A. Language is primarily vocal.

B. Language is creative.

C. Language emphasizes the meaning and functions rather than the structures

D. Language is a vehicle for establishing interpersonal relationship.

TEACHER

8. Which theory on language teaching has given birth to the methods that are learner-centered, allowing learners to work in pairs or groups in information gap tasks and problem-solving activities where such communication strategies as information sharing, negotiation of meaning, and interaction are used.

- A. Structuralism
- B. Behaviorism
- C. Cognitivism
- D. Functionalism

TEACHER

9. It is a branch of linguistics that deals with how words combine to form phrases, phrases combine to form clauses, and clauses conjoin to make sentences.

A. morphology

B. syntax

C. semantics

D. pragmatics

TEACHER

10. What category of illocutionary act is demonstrated in the following example?
Recession will worsen in Europe in the next five years.

- A. representative
- B. commissive
- C. directive
- D. expressive

TEACHER

Searle's Classification for Types of Illocutionary Acts

- A. Assertives (or representatives): represent a state of affairs
E.g. stating, claiming, hypothesizing, describing, telling, insisting, suggesting, asserting, or swearing that something is the case
- B. Directives: get the addressee to do something.
E.g. ordering, commanding, daring, defying, challenging
- C. Commissives: get the speaker (i.e the one performing the act) to do something
E.g. promising, threatening, intending, vowing to do or to refrain from doing something
- D. Expressives: express the mental state of the speaker.
E.g. congratulating, thanking, deploring, condoling, welcoming, apologizing
- E. Declarations: bring about the state of affairs to which they refer.
E.g. blessing, firing, baptizing, bidding, passing sentence, excommunicating

TEACHER

11. This view emphasizes that native language comprises habits that a second language learner must overcome. This is accomplished by forging new habits through repetition of pattern drills with accompanying positive reinforcement.

- A. Behaviorist learning theory
- B. Cognitive learning theory
- C. Functional learning theory
- D. Holistic learning theory

TEACHER

Behaviorism is a systematic approach to the understanding of human and animal behavior. It assumes that the behavior of a human or animal is a consequence of that individual's history, including especially reinforcement and punishment, and the individual's current motivational state and controlling stimuli.

TEACHER

12. Overgeneralization errors such as “goed” and “keeped” are common in children’s speech. Such errors suggest that children _____.

- A. are repeating what was said to them, and should take note of them
- B. do not know the past tense forms of those verbs, and experience difficulty
- C. induce the rules for the past tense from the language to which they are exposed
- D. repeat the teacher’s mistakes, and those errors are very hard to undo

TEACHER

The term “overgeneralization” is most often used in connection with language acquisition by children. For example, a young child may say "foots" instead of "feet," overgeneralizing the morphological rule for making plural nouns.

Fossilization refers to the process in which incorrect language becomes a habit and cannot easily be corrected.

TEACHER

13. This type of language is used to describe the kind of language a learner uses at a given time, that is, his version of a given language, which deviates in certain ways from the language of a mature speaker.

- A. dialect
- B. native language
- C. holophrastic speech
- D. interlanguage

TEACHER

Interlanguage is a type of language (or linguistic system) used by second- and foreign-language learners who are in the process of learning a target language.

STAGES IN A CHILD'S LINGUISTIC DEVELOPMENT

- Babbling – 6-8 months
- One-word stage (holophrastic stage) – 9-18 months
- Two-word stage – 18-24 months
- Telegraphic stage (early multiword stage) – 24-30 months
- Later multiword stage – 30+ months

TEACHER

14. According to cognitivists, errors in second language learning is considered _____.

- A. basis for testing
- B. part of learning process
- C. as proofs of unsystematic way of learning
- D. not part of natural progression in acquisition of English

TEACHER

15. What aptly describes “universal grammar”?

A. language used for communication by people who speak different first languages

B. rules applicable to all human languages

C. language with the same vocabulary, grammar, and pronunciation

D. rules of grammar that distinguish one language from the others

TEACHER

16. At the border of two countries there is a port where fishermen work. The fishermen do not speak the same language, so they communicate using one that has been invented but only for the purpose of trade. This scenario most accurately describes which of the following types of language?

- A. a dialect
- B. a creole
- C. a pidgin
- D. a regionalism

TEACHER

A pidgin is a simplified language that is developed as a means of communication between two or more groups who do not have a language in common.

A creole is a stable natural language that develops from the simplifying and mixing of different languages into a new one within a fairly brief period of time.

A dialect is a form of the language that is spoken in a particular part of the country or by a particular group of people.

Regionalism is a linguistic term for a word, expression, or pronunciation favored by speakers in a particular geographic area.

TEACHER

17. If the second language learner “assimilates”, then he ____.

- A. maintains its own life style and values and rejects those of the target language group
- B. adapts to the life style and values of the target language group but maintains its own life style and values for the intragroup use.
- C. gives up his own life style and values and adopts those of the target language group
- D. maximizes the use of his first language and the target language

TEACHER

Piaget: Assimilation and Accommodation

Jean Piaget's theory of language development suggests that children use both assimilation and accommodation to learn language. Assimilation is the process of changing one's environment to place information into an already-existing schema (or idea). Accommodation is the process of changing one's schema to adapt to the new environment. Piaget believed children need to first develop mentally before language acquisition can occur. According to him, children first create mental structures within the mind (schemas) and from these schemas, language development happens.

- accommodation The act of fitting or adapting, or the state of being fitted or adapted; adaptation; adjustment.
- assimilation The absorption of new ideas into an existing cognitive structure.

TEACHER

18. The following are the areas of knowledge and skills of communicative competence EXCEPT

- A. grammatical competence
- B. sociolinguistic competence
- C. discourse competence
- D. structural competence

4 Dimensions of Communicative Competence Canale and Swaine (1980)

- Grammatical competence refers to what Chomsky calls linguistic competence.
- Sociolinguistic competence refers to an understanding of the social context in which communication takes place (role relationships, shared beliefs, and information between participants...)
- Discourse competence refers to the interpretation of individual message elements in terms of their interconnectedness and how meaning is represented in relation to the entire discourse or text.
- Strategic competence refers to the coping strategies that participants use to initiate terminate, maintain, repair, and redirect communication

19. Speaker A's final remark functions as ____.

Speaker A: That's the telephone.

Speaker B: I'm in the bath.

Speaker A: OK.

- A. a request to answer the phone
- B. an excuse for not complying
- C. acceptance of an excuse
- D. sarcasm

TEACHER

20. What is strategy is used by the second language learner in the following situation”

“The student forgot the English term “train station”.
He used the phrase “the place for trains” instead.

- A. inference
- B. paraphrase
- C. generalization
- D. adaptation

TEACHER

21. Within the communication process, the area that causes the most breakdowns is ____.

- (A) interference
- (B) feedback
- (C) the situation
- (D) the channel
- (E) the message

22. David is preparing a speech about why Hollywood became the center of the motion picture industry and the impact that its development as the center had on filmmaking. David's speech should be organized using which of the following methods?

- (A) Spatial
- (B) Chronological
- (C) Cause-effect
- (D) Problem-solution
- (E) Topical

TEACHER

23. All of the following are correct descriptions of listening behavior EXCEPT:

(A) Careful listening can lead to anticipation of a speaker's actions.

(B) People who learn to listen selectively can shut out what is undesirable.

(C) Listening comprises more than one-half of all communication.

(D) The ability to be a good listener comes naturally, and no training is necessary.

TEACHER

24. When a group is faced with a problem requiring immediate action, the most effective leadership style is ____.

- (A) authoritarian
- (B) democratic
- (C) laissez-faire
- (D) charismatic
- (E) permissive

TEACHER

Transactional leadership - inquire the interactions between leaders and followers; starts with the premise that team members agree to obey their leader totally when they take a job on.

Autocratic leadership - all decision-making powers are centralized in the leader as shown such leaders are dictators; extreme form of transactional leadership, where a leader exerts high levels of power over his or her employees or team members

Transformational leadership - leadership that creates valuable and positive change in the followers; focuses on “transforming” others to help each other, to look out for each other, to be encouraging and harmonious, and to look out for the organization as a whole.

TEACHER

Servant Leadership - the leader as a servant, with his or her key role being in developing, enabling and supporting team members, helping them fully develop their potential and deliver their best

Charismatic Leadership - can appear similar to a transformational leadership style, in that the leader injects huge doses of enthusiasm into his or her team, and is very energetic in driving others forward; charismatic leaders can tend to believe more in themselves than in their teams

Democratic Leadership - the leader will make the final decision, he or she invites other members of the team to contribute to the decision-making process.

TEACHER

Laissez-faire Leadership - the “hands-off ” style; the manager provides little or no direction and gives employees as much freedom as possible; all authority or power is given to the employees and they must determine goals, make decisions, and resolve problems on their own.

Charismatic Leadership - can appear similar to a transformational leadership style, in that the leader injects huge doses of enthusiasm into his or her team, and is very energetic in driving others forward; charismatic leaders can tend to believe more in themselves than in their teams

Bureaucratic Leadership - emphasizes procedures and historical methods regardless of their usefulness in changing environments; bureaucratic leaders work “by the book”, ensuring that their staff follow procedures exactly. This is a very appropriate style for work involving serious safety risks such as working with machinery, with toxic substances, at heights or where large sums of money are involved such as cash-handling.

TEACHER

25. Schema activation is important to make sense of new information in light of what students already know, and to make the necessary connection between the two. The following are good activities for schema activation EXCEPT ____.

- A. constructing graphic organizer
- B. previewing a passage
- C. brainstorming ideas
- D. evaluating or assessing ideas

TEACHER

26. The following are concerns of teaching reading EXCEPT ____.

- A. vocabulary development
- B. comprehension development
- C. output development
- D. application

TEACHER

27. The following are principles for designing effective and interesting reading lessons EXCEPT _____.

- A. For reading lessons to be interesting and motivating, they must focus on simple themes.
- B. Instructional activities have a teaching rather than a testing focus.
- C. Lessons should be divided into pre-reading, during reading, and post-reading.
- D. The major activity of the reading lesson is students reading texts.

TEACHER

28. Content-Based Instruction (CBI) is based on the common underlying principle that successful language learning occurs when students are presented with target language material in a meaningful, contextualized form, with the primary focus on ____.

- A. understanding the lessons
- B. acquiring information and knowledge
- C. making connections between what they learn at school and what they learn outside the school
- D. making meaning from what they learn

Consonants are sounds produced with some restriction or closure in the vocal tract. Consonants are classified based in part on where in the vocal tract the airflow is being restricted (the place of articulation).

The major places of articulation are: bilabial, labiodental, interdental, alveolar, palatal, velar, uvular, and glottal.

| The vocal tract. Places of articulation: 1. bilabial; 2. labiodental; 3. interdental; 4. alveolar; 5. (alveo)palatal; 6. velar; 7. uvular; 8. glottal.

TEACHER

- Most speech sounds are produced by pushing air through the vocal cords
 - Glottis = the opening between the vocal cords
 - Larynx = 'voice box'
 - Pharynx = tubular part of the throat above the larynx
 - Oral cavity = mouth
 - Nasal cavity = nose and the passages connecting it to the throat and sinuses

TEACHER

- Bilabials: [p] [b] [m]
 - Produced by bringing both lips together
- Labiodentals: [f] [v]
 - Produced by touching the bottom lip to the upper teeth
- Interdentals [θ] [ð]
 - Produced by putting the tip of the tongue between the teeth

| The vocal tract. Places of articulation: 1. bilabial; 2. labiodental; 3. interdental; 4. alveolar; 5. (alveo)palatal; 6. velar; 7. uvular; 8. glottal.

- Alveolars: [t] [d] [n] [s] [z] [l] [r]
 - All of these are produced by raising the tongue to the alveolar ridge in some way
 - [t, d, n]: produced by the tip of the tongue touching the alveolar ridge (or just in front of it)
 - [s, z]: produced with the sides of the front of the tongue raised but the tip lowered to allow air to escape
 - [l]: the tongue tip is raised while the rest of the tongue remains down so air can escape over the sides of the tongue (thus [l] is a lateral sound)
 - [r]: air escapes through the central part of the mouth; either the tip of the tongue is curled back behind the alveolar ridge or the top of the tongue is bunched up behind the alveolar ridge

The vocal tract. Places of articulation: 1. bilabial; 2. labiodental; 3. interdental; 4. alveolar; 5. (alveo)palatal; 6. velar; 7. uvular; 8. glottal.

TEACHER

- Palatals: [ʃ] [ʒ] [tʃ] [dʒ] [ɹ]
 - Produced by raising the front part of the tongue to the palate
- Velars: [k] [g] [ŋ]
 - Produced by raising the back of the tongue to the soft palate or velum
- Uvulars: [ʀ] [q] [ʁ]
 - Produced by raising the back of the tongue to the uvula
- Glottals: [h] [ʔ]
 - Produced by restricting the airflow through the open glottis ([h]) or stopping the air completely at the glottis (a glottal stop: [ʔ])

The vocal tract. Places of articulation: 1. bilabial; 2. labiodental; 3. interdental; 4. alveolar; 5. (alveo)palatal; 6. velar; 7. uvular; 8. glottal.

Unvoiced Consonants:

/p/ /t/ /k/ /f/ /s/
/sh/ /h/ /th/ /ch/
(Note: Vowels are voiced.)

Voice or voicing is a term used in phonetics and phonology to characterize speech sounds (usually consonants). It refers to the speech sounds produced by the vocal folds (vocal cords). Speech sounds can be described as either voiceless (unvoiced) or voiced. All vowels are normally voiced, but consonants may be either voiced or voiceless.

The liquid consonant l and the nasal m, n, ng (as in “sing”) are normally voiced in English, and the stops, fricatives, and affricates characteristically possess both voiced and voiceless forms.

TEACHER

- Some voiceless sounds can be further distinguished as aspirated or unaspirated

aspirated

pool [p^hul]

tale [t^hel]

kale [k^hel]

unaspirated

spool [spul]

stale [stel]

scale [skel]

TEACHER

Voiceless stops like ([p], [t], and [k]) are aspirated when they occur immediately before (no sound in between) a stressed vowel, and there is no [s] in front of the voiceless stop. So, they are not aspirated after [s], if they occur before an unstressed vowel, or if there is a liquid or glide between the stop and the vowel (and then the liquid/glide is considered voiceless = [r])

Consonants: Manner of Articulation

- Oral sounds are those produced with the velum raised to prevent air from escaping out the nose
- Nasal sounds are those produced with the velum lowered to allow air to escape out the nose
- So far we have three ways of classifying sounds based on phonetic features: by voicing, by place of articulation, and by nasalization
 - [p] is a voiceless, bilabial, oral sound
 - [n] is a voiced, alveolar, nasal sound

TEACHER

Consonants: Manner of Articulation

- Stops: [p] [b] [m] [t] [d] [n] [k] [g] [ŋ] [tʃ][dʒ] [ʔ]
 - Produced by completely stopping the air flow in the oral cavity for a fraction of a second
 - All other sounds are continuants, meaning that the airflow is continuous through the oral cavity
- Fricatives: [f] [v] [θ] [ð] [s] [z] [ʃ] [ʒ] [x] [χ] [h]
 - Produced by severely obstructing the airflow so as to cause friction

TEACHER

Consonants: Manner of Articulation

- Affricates: [tʃ] [dʒ]
 - Produced by a stop closure that is released with a lot of friction
- Liquids: [l] [r]
 - Produced by causing some obstruction of the airstream in the mouth, but not enough to cause any real friction
- Glides: [j] [w]
 - Produced with very little obstruction of the airstream and are always followed by a vowel

A. assimilation

B. dissimilation

C. epenthesis

D. metathesis

In phonology, dissimilation is a phenomenon whereby similar consonants or vowels in a word become less similar. In English, dissimilation is particularly common with liquid consonants such as /r/ and /l/ when they occur in a sequence.

TEACHER

Phonological Processes

Typical patterns of error used by all children when they try to imitate adults as they are developing speech.

Phonological Disorder?

When a child uses incorrect speech patterns by making errors on sound patterns or sound blends. Correct speech becomes easier as a child's tongue and motor skills mature and gain experience. Sometimes a child holds onto these "baby" or "immature" patterns of speech simply because they are not aware that they are saying sounds wrong. If a child continues to use these processes, the result is a developmental phonological disorder.

PHONOLOGICAL PROCESSES

Phonological processes are patterns of sound errors that typically developing children use to simplify speech as they are learning to talk. A phonological disorder occurs when phonological processes persist beyond the age when most typically developing children have stopped using them or when the processes used are much different than what would be expected.

SUBSTITUTION	Definition	Example	Approx. age of elimination
Backing	When alveolar sounds, like /t/ and /d/, are substituted with velar sounds like /k/ and /g/	"gog" for "dog"	Usually seen in more severe phonological delays.
Fronting	When velar or palatal sounds, like /k/, /g/, and sh, are substituted with alveolar sounds like /t/, /d/, and /s/	"tootie" for "cookie"	3.5 yrs.
Gliding	When /r/ becomes a /w/, and /l/ becomes a /w/ or y sound	"wabbit" for "rabbit" or "yeyo" for "yello"	6 yrs.
Stopping	When a fricative (like /f/ or /s/) or affricate (ch,j) is substituted with a stop consonant like /p/ or /d/	"pan" for "fan" or "dump" for "jump"	/f/, /s/ by 3; /v/, /z/ by 3 1/2; sh, ch, j by 4 1/2; th gone by 5
Vowelization	When the /l/ or er sounds are replaced with a vowel	"appo" for "apple" or "papuh" for "paper"	—
Affrication	When a nonaffricate is replaced with an affricate (ch or j)	"joor" for "door"	3 yrs.

Depalatalization	When a palatal sound is substituted with a nonpalatal sound	"fit" for "fish"	5 yrs.
Labialization	When a nonlabial sound is replaced with a labial sound	"pie" for "tie"	6 yrs.

TEACHER

ASSIMILATION

Definition	Example	Approx. age of elimination
Assimilation	When a consonant sound starts to sound like another sound in the word	"bub" for "bus" 3 yrs.
Denasalization	When a nasal consonant like /m/ or /n/ changes to a nonnasal consonant like /b/ or /d/	"doze" for "nose" 2.5 yrs.
Final Consonant Devoicing	When a voiced consonant at the end of a word like /b/ or /d/ is substituted with a voiceless consonant like /p/ or /t/	"pick" for "pig" 3 yrs.
Prevocalic Voicing	When a voiceless consonant in the beginning of a word like /k/ or /f/ is substituted with a voiced consonant like /g/ or /v/	"gomb" for "comb" 6 yrs.
Coalescence	When two phonemes are substituted with a different phoneme that still has similar features	"foon" for "spoon" —
Reduplication	When a complete or incomplete syllable is repeated	"baba" for "bottle" 3 yrs.

SYLLABLE STRUCTURE

Definition	Example	Approx. age of elimination
Cluster Reduction	When a consonant cluster is reduced to a single consonant	"pane" for "plane" Gone by 4 yrs. without /s/, gone by 5 yrs. with /s/
Final Consonant Deletion	When the final consonant in a word is left off	"toe" for "toad" 3 yrs.
Initial Consonant Deletion	When the initial consonant in a word is left off	"unny" for "bunny" Usually seen in more severe phonological delays.
Weak Syllable Deletion	When the weak syllable in a word is deleted	"nana" for "banana" 4 yrs.
Epenthesis	When a sound is added between two consonants, typically the uh sound	"bu-lue" for "blue" 8 yrs.

TEACHER

74. Which character is created to contradict another character and invite audience to rethink?

A. Antagonist

B. Protagonist

C. Foil

D. Flat

A literary foil is a character whose purpose is to accentuate or draw attention to the qualities of another character, most often the protagonist. This literary term is named after an old jewelry trick of setting a gem on a foil base to enhance its shine.

TEACHER

Literary foils exist to reveal information about characters and their motivations.

- Help readers get a deeper understanding of a character. The main purpose of a foil is to draw attention to and emphasize another character's strengths and weaknesses. Sometimes, this is done through contrast. For example, in Mary Shelley's Frankenstein, Victor Frankenstein shuts himself off from others, driven by his obsession to create a living being. As a result, he creates his own foil: a creature who craves companionship and connection, exhibiting the human characteristics that Frankenstein lacks.
- Put a character in context. Creating a counterpart for a main character sets a gauge for the reader. Without Mercutio as a foil, Romeo might just seem like a boy in love, in William Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet. Mercutio's more casual approach to matters of the heart compared to his best friend's helps illuminate the depth of Romeo's obsession.
- Take a different path. A foil might do more than just offer insight into another character's personality. Their different values and motivations may lead them to make different choices, illuminating an alternate "what if" plotline. In Mark Twain's The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn, Huck is guided by his moral compass, and his foil, Tom Sawyer, by his sense of adventure. This causes the two characters to approach every situation in a very different way.

TEACHER

- Static – Characters who are static do not change throughout the story. Their use may simply be to create or relieve tension, or they were not meant to change. A major character can remain static through the whole story.
- Dynamic – Dynamic characters change throughout the story. They may learn a lesson, become bad, or change in complex ways.
- Flat – A flat character has one or two main traits, usually only all positive or negative. They are the opposite of a round character. The flaw or strength has its use in the story.
- Round – These are the opposite of the flat character. These characters have many different traits, good and bad, making them more interesting.
- Stock – These are the stereotypical characters, such as the boy genius, ambitious career person, faithful sidekick, mad scientist, etc.

TEACHER

TEACHER

77. What literary theory or approach is shown in the following passage?

A. Feminist Criticism

B. Psychoanalytic Theory

C. Reader-Response Criticism

D. Romantic Theory

The difficulties involved in the governess's effort to create a space for herself outside of patriarchal boundaries are metaphorically represented in her struggle for the children. While she believes she is engaged in a battle with the ghosts for the children's souls, she is also, symbolically, involved in overcoming patriarchal definitions of womanhood. Rejecting the ineffectual role played by Mrs. Grose, the respectable matron character, the governess attempts to define herself against the sexualized whose figure, Miss Jessel, as she tries, to supplant the male-authority figure, Peter Quint. Neither of these roles can help her in her struggle for a subject position, however, as is made clear when the governess cannot replace Miss Jessel for Flora, or Quint for Miles.

TEACHER

- A. Feminist Criticism - focuses on the representation of women in literature.
- B. Psychoanalytic Theory - focuses more about the author's life than the reader's life.
- C. Reader-Response Criticism - literature has no fixed-single meaning
- D. Romantic Theory - more importance given to individual responsibility than adherence to customs and traditions
- E. Marxist Theory - places a literary work within the context of class and assumptions about class
- F. Deconstruction - follows the belief that objects have meaning because that it was it has been defined as through language
- G. Postmodern - eschews absolute meaning and instead emphasizes play, fragmentation, metafiction, and intertextuality.

TEACHER

78. What literary theory or approach is shown in the following passage?

A. Marxist Literary theory

B. Psychoanalytic Theory

C. Postmodern Literary Theory

D. Deconstruction

Not only James's governess fit the classic profile of the female sexual hysteric she also experiences the "hysterical fit" observed by turn-of-the-century clinicians. That her first hallucination precipitates a "nervous explosion" of some intensity is clear from her own account. Like that of the classic hysteric, her "mental activity... split up, and only a part of it is conscious." Her initial fantasy of her handsome employer is conscious, but his transformation into a figure embodying her fear of sexuality is generated by deep-rooted unconscious inhibitions.

TEACHER

79. What literary theory or approach is shown in the following passage?

- D. Marxist Literary Theory

What is even more troublesome is disagreement among critics about just what standards are to be applied. Two “straight” readers, seeing the ghosts as real and the story as an attempt to “turn the screws” of horror as thrillingly as possible, might flatly disagree with each other about whether the literary experience of thrilling horror is good or bad for “us,” or for a given immature reader, or for a former governess now incarcerated in a mental institution.

Because of all this variety, we have to ask our questions as if we were dealing not with one The Turn of the Screw but many different ones.

TEACHER

80. If a teacher uses only basal readers for teaching her students to read, she is most likely believes in ____.

- A. Primarily a whole language approach
- B. Primarily a phonics approach
- C. A mixture of a whole language and phonics
- D. Individualized reading instruction

TEACHER

The Basal Reading Approach is a technique used to teach children reading skills. Basal stems from the word "base" or "basic." Commonly called "reading books" or "readers", basal readers are short stories, including individual books for learners, a teacher's edition, workbooks, assessments and activities for a specific reading level.

81. A parent walks into a classroom and sees the children in groups, each gathered around a poster board. The children are writing ideas on the poster board in what looks like graffiti (writing on walls) to the parent. When the parent asks the teacher what the children are doing, the teacher is likely to explain that ____.

- A. This is playtime, and the children need playtime because recess has been taken out of the program
- B. The children are involved in brainstorming, which is part of the prewriting stage of the writing process
- C. Invented spelling and graffiti type expression is important to the child's development
- D. The children are creating final versions of posters to be displayed in the school fair.

She Dwelt Among The Untrodden Ways
William Wordsworth

She dwelt among the untrodden ways
Beside the springs of Dove,
A maid whom there were none to praise
And very few to love:

A violet by a mossy stone
Half hidden from the eye!
Fair as a star, when only one
Is shining in the sky.

She lived unknown, and few could know
When Lucy ceased to be;
But she is in her grave, and oh,
The difference to me!

TEACHER
