Compound Subjects

RULE 2: If the subjects (whether singular or plural) are joined by and, the verb must be in a plural form:

- The PhilHealth Commissioner and other officials are subjected to corruption issues.
- A life of leisure and a life of laziness are two things.

EXCEPTION:

- Bacon and eggs is a popular breakfast meal in many countries.
- Spaghetti and meatballs is the best seller this evening.
- Corned beef and cabbage is his favorite dish.

Compound Subjects

RULE 3: If the subjects are joined by or or nor, the verb should agree with the subject that is closest to the verb:

Neither Sid nor his buddies live in a fraternity.

(His buddies follows nor and is plural; therefore, the plural form of the verb is required.)

Either Sue's sisters or she is planning to work this week.

(She follows or and is singular; singular is required.)

When a prepositional phrase follows either or neither, the verb is always singular.

Either of the girls is capable of doing the job.

Neither of the musicians has the equipment necessary for the type of presentation we are planning.

Indefinite Pronouns as Subjects

- Indefinite pronouns are those that do not refer to or replace a specific person, place or thing.

anybody	everything	someone
anyone	nobody	something
anything	no one	each
everybody	nothing	either
everyone	somebody	neither

Indefinite Pronouns as Subjects

RULE 4: Most indefinite pronouns are singular subjects.

Both, few, many, and several are always plural.

All, any, none and some can be singular or plural depending upon their antecedent.

Examples:

- Has anyone seen my cat?
- If somebody has something to say, now is the time to say it.
- Both of us are going to pick you up in the airport.
- Several pipes have burst from the cold.
- None of the money is left.
- None of the jewels are real.

Indefinite Pronouns as Subjects

RULE 4: Most indefinite pronouns are singular subjects.

Both, few, many, and several are always plural.

All, any, none and some can be singular or plural depending upon their antecedent.

Examples:

┌──────────────────────────┴──────────────────────────
All of the Boy Scouts in Troop 98 go to summer camp.

┌──┴──
All of the time that you spend researching in the library helps develop your learning skills.

┌──────────┴──────────
I hope that some of the dessert is still left for me.

┌──────────┴──────────
Some of the girls are planning a picnic.

Practice

1. Of all the countries in that area of the world, perhaps Nigeria (have, has) _____ the most potential.
2. Every person in this room (has, have) a ticket for the door prize.
3. Neither Christie nor her sisters ever (walk, walks) to school.
4. Some of the flowers (is, are) wilted.
5. Either the manager or his secretary (distribute, distributes) the employees' paychecks.
6. (Was, Were) either of you in the building at the time that the alarm sounded?
7. Nobody (look, looks) at bacteria with the naked eye.
8. Neither the investigators nor the scientist (offer, offers) a satisfactory explanation for that occurrence.

Collective Nouns as Subjects

A collective noun or group noun identifies a single entity that is composed of more than one unit: class, team, faculty, majority, family, series, committee, jury, audience, crowd. Collective nouns are singular when they act as one unit.

RULE 5: When the subject is a collective noun it should be followed by a singular verb (with -s or -es) -- unless the collective noun is plural (teams) or the context of the sentence emphasizes each individual in the group.

Examples:

- The committee meets Friday at noon.
- A majority is needed to pass the bill.
- Every afternoon the baseball team follows its coach out to the hot field for practice.

Collective Nouns as Subjects

EXCEPTION:

- The committee are busy working on their respective tasks.
- The committees meet each Friday at noon.
- A majority of students feel unsafe on school grounds.
- A number of parents appeal to the Department of Education on the possible resumption of face-to-face classes.
- After the three-hour practice under the sun, the team shower, change into their street clothes, and go to their air-conditioned homes.

Titles and Phrases as Subjects

RULE 5: When the subject is a title, a specified word or phrase, or a gerund phrase, treat it as a single unit and follow it with a base form of the verb.

Title: Cats is my favorite musical.

Specified phrase: "Once upon a time" is the standard introduction to a fairy tale.

Gerund phrase: Delivering pizzas is not a glamorous job, but it pays my bill.

Singular Plurals as Subjects

Rule 5: Singular plurals (handful of words) are actually singular most of the time (e. g., economics, news). These are singular unless they describe individual entities.

Examples:

- Physics is my favorite subject.
- Statistics shows a strong correlation between goal setting and achievement.
- These statistics show a strong correlation between goal setting and achievement.

Subjects with Prepositional Phrases

Rule 6: Prepositional phrases are not subjects, so when you have a word group that includes a prepositional phrase other than those mentioned below, look at the noun before the phrase to determine whether the verb will be singular or plural.

Examples:

The ~~size of the shoes~~ makes a difference in the comfort factor.

His ability to speak three languages increases his chances of getting the job.

Subjects with Prepositional Phrases

The following phrases can be singular or plural depending on the word that follows them:

a lot of ____% of a fraction (one-half three-quarters, five-eighths etc.) of all of the majority of Twenty percent of the cars on the road are defective.

Thirty-five percent of the class plans to attend graduate school.

Three-fourths of the students prefer not to eat in the cafeteria.

- A. I learned the distance of the sun from the earth was 90 million miles.
- B. I learned that the sun was 90 million miles from the earth.
-  C. I learned that the sun is 90 million miles from the earth.
- D. I learned that the earth and the sun are 90 million miles apart

Tips for Error Identification:

1. You should be well-versed with the parts of speech, such as adverb, adjectives, conjunctions, nouns, interjections, etc.

These must be correctly used as they help to make a sentence constructive.

- Example:

She cooks real good. (Incorrect)

She cooks really well. (Correct)

2. Make sure the sentence is grammatically appropriate, where the subject must agree with the verb.

- The subject-verb agreement should be there, if not, then the sentence has an error. It also acts as a hint for finding an error.

3. There should be no parallelism within the sentence. Various words in the sentence should follow the same concept where all are written in the same tense.

- Example:

Students must go through programming, computing and how to process. (Incorrect)

The student must go through programming, computing, and processing. (Correct)

4. A modifier is something which should come after subject as it modifies the subject. The sentence can be wrong if the modifiers are placed before the subject.

- Example:

Swamped in mud, Jai rescued the puppy. (Incorrect)

Swamped in mud, the puppy was rescued by Jai. (Correct)

5. The sentence must not include repetitive words or redundancy.
 - Example:
He will return back next week. (Incorrect)
He will return next week. (Correct)
6. Several grammatical, punctuation, and spelling details or knowledge is a must have for the people appearing for error identification test.
7. Pronoun agreement should be there, such as he/she/it should go with does or 'es' and you/we/they must go with doing.

15. Choose which part of the sentence has an error.
After hours of futile debate, the committee has decided to postpone further discussion of the resolution until their next meeting.

- A. after
- B. to postpone
- C. of the resolution
- D. their

After hours of futile debate, the committee has decided to postpone further discussion of the resolution until their next meeting.

[?] The error in this sentence occurs at (D). A pronoun must agree in number (singular or plural) with the noun to which it refers. Here, the plural pronoun "their" incorrectly refers to the singular noun "committee."

[?] The other options contain no errors. In (A), the preposition "After" appropriately introduces a phrase that indicates when the committee made its decision. In (B), "to postpone" is the verb form needed to complete the description of the committee's decision. In (C), the prepositional phrase "of the resolution" appropriately specifies the subject of the postponed discussion.

[?] The sentence may be corrected as follows:

After hours of futile debate, the committee has decided to postpone further discussion of the resolution until its next meeting.

16. Choose which part of the sentence has an error.
The students have discovered that they can address issues more effectively through letterwriting campaigns and not through public demonstrations.

A. have discovered

B. they

C. through

D. and not

The students have discovered that they can address issues more effectively through letterwriting campaigns and not through public demonstrations.

[?] The error in this sentence occurs at (D). When a comparison is introduced by the adverb "more," as in "more effectively," the second part of the comparison must be introduced by the conjunction "than" rather than "and not."

[?] The other options contain no errors. In (A), the plural verb "have discovered" agrees with the plural subject "students." In (B), the plural pronoun "they" correctly refers to the plural noun "students." In (C), the preposition "through" appropriately expresses the means by which issues are addressed.

[?] The sentence may be corrected as follows:

The students have discovered that they can address issues more effectively through letter-writing campaigns than through public demonstrations.

17. Choose which part of the sentence has an error.
All states impose severe penalties on drivers who do not stop when he or she is involved in accidents.

A. impose

B. penalties

C. he or she

D. involved

All states a impose severe b penalties on drivers who do not stop when c he or she is d involved in accidents.

The error in this sentence is (C): the pronouns "he or she" (which are both singular) do not agree with the noun "drivers" (which is plural).

The correct sentence reads:

All states impose severe penalties on drivers who do not stop when they are involved in accidents. Note that the verb "is" has to be changed to "are" when the subject becomes plural.

18. Choose which part of the sentence has an error.
No one dares to disobey Ms. Johnson, as she is the strictest between all the teachers.

A. dares

B. strictest

C. between

D. no error

19. _____ up! Or we'll be late.

A. You hurry

B. Be hurrying

C. Hurry

D. Hurry you

20. We admire _____ when Cynthia speaks English fluently with _____.

21. Which of the following is expressed clearly, effectively states the idea, and has no structural error?

- A. Good teachers possess a capacity for connectedness; not in the method but in their hearts - a place where intellect, emotion, spirit, and will converge in the human self.
- B. Good teachers possess a capacity for cooperation; not in the method but in their hearts where they knowledge, spirit and emotion converge.
- C. Good teachers are capable to promote interrelationship among learners, parents, school heads, and community.
- D. Good teachers have the capacity to develop interpersonal relationship among the factors in the learning environment.

22. The captain of the pep squad are working feverishly to boost the team's morale. No error.

- A. pep-squad
- B. are
- C. to boost
- D. team's morale
- E. No error

23. The teachers as well as the guidance counselor is accompanying the students on a field trip. No error.

- A. teachers
- B. guidance counselor
-  C. is accompanying
- D. on a field trip
- E. No error

24. Simba and Nala is my favorite characters in The Lion King. No error.

- A. and
-  B. is
- C. The Lion King
- D. No error

25. Which of the following is expressed clearly, effectively states the idea, and has no structural error?

A. A strange car kept blinking the lights at us as he followed closely.

B. A strange car followed closely, and he kept blinking his lights at us.

 C. A strange car followed us closely, and its driver kept blinking his lights at us.

D. A strange car, blinking the lights at us, followed closely.

FUTURE PERFECT TENSE

FUTURE PERFECT TENSE

It is used to express an action, which will have finished or completed before a specific time in the future.

Example:

By 5 o'clock, I will have finished my work.

It is used to express an action, which will have finished or completed before another action in the future.

Example:

She will have cooked dinner by the time we arrive.

It is used to express an action which began before and will continue up until another action in the future.

Example:

By the next week, we will have been married for 20 years.

PRESENT PERFECT TENSE

Unspecified Time - Life Experiences

When the event happened at an unspecified time in the past. For things we have done in our lives (life experiences) but we don't say WHEN they happened.

- ✓ I've met the President. We don't say WHEN these things happened in the past.
- ✓ She's won many awards.
- ✓ We've done this before.
- ✓ He has appeared on TV.

Unfinished Time Periods

We use the present perfect tense to talk about periods of time that have not finished such as today, this week, this month.
Today has not finished. This month has not finished.

- ✓ I've been very busy this week.
- ✓ She's had five cups of coffee today.
- ✓ We've spent a lot of money this month.
- ✓ He has studied a lot this year.

Finished Event Connected to Now

This is an action that happened in the past (often recent past) but has a connection to now or a result in the present.

- ✓ I've eaten too much. (I don't feel very well now)
- ✓ They've studied for the test. (They are likely to pass it now)
- ✓ He's lost his keys. (Now he can't enter his house)
- ✓ She's had some bad news. (Now she is sad)

Completion or Achievement

This activity has (recently) been completed or done. Someone has just achieved something. Used to ask someone if something has been done or finished.

- ✓ I have finally finished my homework.
- ✓ Has he tidied his room?
- ✓ We have just won our league.
- ✓ Have you written your essay yet?

Duration of Something - FOR

To say how long something has lasted until the present moment, we use FOR + Length of Time.

- ✓ We have known each other for many years.
- ✓ They have rented our house for two months.
- ✓ She has been in Spain for three weeks.
- ✓ He's worked with me for ten years.

Duration of Something - SINCE

We use SINCE when we give the beginning point (in the past) of the event that continues from then until today.

- ✓ I haven't eaten anything since breakfast.
- ✓ We have rented this house since 2019.
- ✓ She has worked here since September.
- ✓ He hasn't been at work since Wednesday.

Repetition - Habitual Actions

When an activity has been repeated many times up until now and it is likely to continue to happen. These activities could also be habitual actions in the past.

- ✓ I have called him ten times and he still hasn't answered the phone.
- ✓ She has seen the movie over a dozen times.
- ✓ We have eaten at that restaurant many times.

The First Time ... The Second Time

We use the present perfect tense when we start with: This is the X time ... That is the X time ... It is the X time ... (X time = first time, second time, third time, etc.)

- ✓ This is the first time I have done it.
- ✓ That is the third time he has shouted at us.
- ✓ It's the first time it has rained on this trip.
- ✓ It's the second time we have been here.

Why Verbal Analogy?

Verbal analogies provide excellent training in seeing relationships between concepts. From a practical standpoint, verbal analogies always appear on standardized tests to determine an applicant's quickness and verbal acuity.

How to read verbal analogies?

*The symbol (:) means "is to"
and the symbol (::) means "as."*

aspirin : headache :: nap : fatigue

"Aspirin is to headache as nap is to fatigue."

or

“The relationship between aspirin and headache is the same as the relationship between nap and fatigue.”

TIPS FOR DOING ANALOGIES

- Try to determine the relationship between the first pair of words.
- Eliminate any pairs in your answer choices that don't have the same relationship.
- Try putting the first pair into a sentence:
"Aspirin relieves a headache." Therefore, a nap relieves fatigue.
- Sometimes paying attention to the words' parts of speech helps.
For example "knife" (noun) : "cut" (verb) :: "pen" (also a noun) :
"write" (also a verb).

COMMON RELATIONSHIPS

1. Sameness (synonyms)

boring : monotonous

wealthy : affluent :: indigent : poverty-stricken

2. Oppositeness (antonyms)
