Development of Philippine Education

The present educational system of the Philippines is the result of a long process of educational evolution.

- Pre-Spanish Period
 - During the pre-Spanish period, education was informal. It means that there was no overruling agency that governs the educational system.
 - The child is taught at home by the parents or by some tribal tutor.
 - The practice of apprenticeship, whereby a person usually learns some occupational skill from his parents or sent to somebody as an apprentice who knows a certain job [say, a blacksmith]
 - Institutionalized education in the form of initiation rites and religious ceremonies. The priest called sonats provided a specialized training for would-be priest.
 - We can safely assume that subjects of instruction that is being taught inside the house deals with tribal rules/codes, instructions of faith [paganism, animism], basic counting system [I believe that there should be since early Filipinos [or should we say Indio] were already exchanging trades with neighboring Asian countries], and basic literacy [the Alibata, our local alphabet system and local language].
- Spanish Period
 - The Royal Decree of 1555 of King Carlos I mandated the three goals of Spanish education; Indoctrination of Christianity of Spanish language and imposition of Spanish culture.
 - Education of the Filipino was mainly learning the Christian doctrine. It was simple catechism, not the same as Christian education in Europe.
 - The vernacular, not Spanish was used as the medium of instruction in the parochial schools.
 - The religious orders introduced the parochial school concept practiced in Europe during the Dark Ages. The rise of parochial schools started in Cebu in 1565 by the Augustinian missionaries. Subjects other than the Doctrine were soon offered and these were simple arithmetic, music and various arts and trades.
 - The Royal Decree in 1863, penned by Minister Jose de la Concha, was the first attempt of the Spaniards to establish an overall public school system and to provide for the training of teachers through a normal school attached to “Escuela Pia”, now Ateneo de Manila University
- Revolutionary Republic
 - The first was established on June 12, 1898 in Kawit, Cavite with General Emilio Aguinaldo as President, June 12 is now the official independence day in the country.
 - The first organized reaction against Spanish in justice happened from 1862 to 1872. Patriotic Filipinos formed the “Comite de Reformadores” in 1862 to work for reforms for the assimilation of the country as a province of Spain. This group was led by the priest Mariano Gomez, Jose Burgos, and Jacinto Zamora (GOMBURZA). The reform movement ended up at the Cavite mutiny and the execution of the three priests in 1872.
- American Period
 - The treaty of Paris on December 10, 1898 put an end to the First Republic President McKinley issued his “Benevolent Policy of Assimilation” by which the America would assume full control and administration of Philippine Affairs.
 - In 1899 he appointed a commission to study the newly acquired territory and this was the Schurman Commission. In 1900 another commission was appointed and this was the Taft

Commission. Its task was to organize a civil government. In March 1900 the office of Superintendent of Public Instruction was created with Capt. Albert Todd as the general superintendent of schools.

- The education act of 1901, also known as Act No. 74 of the Philippine Commission was promulgated to establish a department of Public Instruction. Sections 1 to 13 were meant to establish a highly centralized system. Sections 14 and 15 provided for the importations of teachers (the Thomasites). Section 16 provided for the separation of Church and state. Section 17 created the Philippine Normal School.
- The Department of Public Instruction set up a three-level instruction of schools. The first level consisted of a four-year primary and three-year intermediate. The second level was a four-year high school. The third level at first was a two-year junior college and later a four-year program.
- The name of Bureau of Public Instruction became Bureau of Education under Act No. 477 which was passed on November 1, 1902
- The high school system supported by provincial governments, special educational institutions, established 1902 by the Phil. Commission.
- In 1908, the Philippine Legislature approved Act. No 1870 which created the University of the Philippines.
- The Reorganization Act of 1916 provided the Filipinization of all department secretaries except the Secretary of Public Instruction.
- In 1925, the Monroe Survey Commission was created to evaluate the entire school system the Americans set up. It was the first of its kind in the country and headed by Paul Monroe.

- Japanese Period

- Japanese educational policies were embodied in Military Order No. 2 in 1942
- On Oct. 14, 1943, the Japanese sponsored Republic created the Ministry of Education.
- Under the Japanese:
 - Teaching of tagalog, Philippine History & Character Education was reserved for Filipinos
 - Love for work and dignity of labor was emphasized.

✚ On February 27, 1945, the Department of Instruction was made part of the Department of Public instruction.

✚ In 1947, by virtue of Executive Order No. 94, the Department of instruction was changed into Department of Education.

✚ During the period, the regulation and supervision of public and private schools belonged to the Bureau of Public and private.

✚ In 1972, it became the Department of Education Culture by virtue of Proclamation 1081.

✚ In 1978 it became Ministry of Education and Culture by virtue of P.D. No. 1397.

✚ The Education Act of 1982 created the Ministry of Education Culture and Sports which later became Department of Education Culture and Sports in 1987 by virtue of Executive order NO. 117

✚ The structure of DECS has remained unchanged until 1994 when the Commission on Higher Education (CHED) and the Technical Education and Skills Development Authority (TESDA) were established to supervise tertiary degree program and non-degree technical-vocational programs, respectively.

🚩 The Congressional Commission on Education (EDCOM) report provided for Congress to pass RA 7722 and RA 7796 to create TESDA, respectively

Trifocalized system of education

- Basic Education- RA9155
- CHED- RA7722
- TESDA- RA7796

In August 2001, Republic Act 9155, otherwise known as Government of basic Education Act, transformed DECS to DepEd

- RA 9155
 - School head empowerment by strengthening their leadership roles
 - School based management within the context of transparency and local accountability

The Foundation Principles of Morality

What is morality?

- The quality of human acts by which we call them right or wrong, good or evil.

Your human action is right when it conforms with the norm, rule, or law of morality

What is the meaning of foundation moral principle?

- Principle – comes from the latin word, “princeps” which means a beginning, a source
- A principle is that on which something is based, founded, originated, initiated
- Foundation of Moral Principle- the universal norm upon which all other principles on the rightness or wrongness of an action are based

Where you can find this foundation moral principle?

- It is contained in the natural law.
- Natural law – is the law written in the hearts of men
 - it is the law that states “do good and avoid evil”. THIS IS THE FUNDAMENTAL OR FOUNDATIONAL MORAL PRINCIPLE

Teacher as a person of Good Moral character

4 ways of describing good moral character:

1. being fully human

You have realized substantially your potential as a human person

2. being a loving person

You are caring and unselfish and mature manner with yourself, other people and God

3. being a virtuous person

You have acquired good habits and attitudes and you practice them consistently in your daily life

4. being a morally mature person

You have reached a level of maturity in the spiritual, emotional, intellectual, and social levels.

Different kinds of Conscience

- Right conscience – judge what is really good as good and evil what is really evil
- Erroneous conscience – judges what is bad as good and vice versa
- PHARISAICAL – this means that a person is “hypocrite” – saying good things, but doing the opposite

- Certain conscience – subjective assurance of the lawfulness or unlawfulness of an action and therefore (it is possible) the action should be omitted.
- Scrupulous conscience – constantly afraid of committing evil. This conscience is a result of a stubborn character.
- Lax conscience – knows excuses. Conscience that tends to follow the easy way and find excuses for mistakes
- Guilty conscience – disturbed conscience trying to restore good relations with God by means of sorrow and repentance
- Callous – insensitive, heartless

Three Theological Principles

1. Principle of Double-Effect – relieving a terminally ill person
 - Euthanasia (Mercy killing)
2. Choice of the Lesser Evil – selecting from two unpleasant situations, the one which is the least harmful should be chosen
3. Principle of Cooperation
 - a. Formal Cooperation – willing participation on the part of the cooperative agent in the sinful act of the principal agent.
 - b. Material Cooperation – one does not intend the evil that the others are doing but only permits or tolerates this evil for the sake of avoiding even more serious evils.

Consensus and Conflict Theory

- Consensus – is a general widespread agreement among all members of a particular society
- Conflict – is a disagreement or clash between opposing ideas, principles or people which may be covert or overt.

Consensus theories view shared norms and values as fundamental to society.

Conflict theories emphasizes the dominance of some social groups by others.

Four Pillars of Education

- UNESCO – United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization
- Promotes international cooperation and implementation of international agreements
- Proposed that the learning process should be based on four pillars of education;

Learning to know

- Includes the development of the faculties of the memory, imagination, reasoning, problem-solving
- Learning to learn skills
- It is a process of discovery, which takes time and involves going more deeply into the information/knowledge delivered through subject teaching
- Focuses on specialization required of every individual.

Learning to do

- This pillar of learning implies in the first place for application of what learners have learned or known into practices;
- It is closely linked to vocational-technical education and work skills training
- Shift from skill to competence, or mix of higher-order skills specific to each individual.
- Thus learning to do means, among other things,
 - ability to communicate effectively with others

- aptitude toward team work;
- social skills in building meaningful interpersonal relations;
- adaptability to change in the world of work and in social life;
- competency in transforming knowledge into innovations and job-creation;
- and a readiness to take risks and resolve or manage conflicts

Learning to live together

- it implies an education taking two complementary paths: on one level, discovery of others and on another, experience of shared purpose throughout life
- specifically it implies the development of such qualities as;
 - knowledge and understanding of self and others;
 - appreciation of the diversity of the human race;
 - and an awareness of the similarities between, and the interdependence of, all humans;
 - empathy and cooperative social behaviour in caring and sharing;
 - respect of other people and their cultures and value systems;
 - capability of encountering others and resolving conflicts through dialogue; and
 - competency in working towards common objectives

Learning to be

- learning to be may therefore be interrupted in one way as learning to be human, learn more about themselves
- aimed at the wholistic development of individuals
- through acquisition of knowledge, skills and values conducive to personality development in its intellectual, moral, cultural and physical dimensions
- this implies a curriculum aiming at
 - cultivating qualities of imagination and creativity;
 - acquiring universally shared human values;
 - developing aspects of a person's potential;
 - memory, reasoning, aesthetic sense, physical capacity and communication/social skills;
 - developing critical thinking and
 - exercising independent judgement;
 - and developing personal commitment and responsibility.

Language and Culture

Language

- a system of verbal and, in many cases, written symbols with rules of how those symbols can be strung together to convey more complex meanings
- It is impossible to overstate the importance of language in the development, elaboration, and transmission of culture.
- Language enables people to store meanings and experiences to pass this heritage on to new generations.

Culture

- a set of learned behaviors, beliefs, attitudes, values, and ideals that are characteristics of a particular society or population. (Ember, 1999)
- learned norms, values, knowledge, artifacts, language, and symbols that are constantly communicated among people who share a common way of life. (Calhoun, et al., 1994)

Linguistic-relativity hypothesis – asserts that language determines thought and therefore culture. In reality language and culture influence each other.

Characteristics of Culture:

1. Culture is learned
2. Culture is shared by group of people
3. Culture is cumulative
4. Cultures change
5. Culture is dynamic
6. Culture is ideational
7. Culture is diverse
8. Culture gives us a range of permissible behaviour patterns

Culture is transmitted through:

1. Enculturation – process of learning culture of one's own group
2. Acculturation – it is the process of learning some new traits from another culture.
3. Assimilation – the term used for a process in which an individual entirely loses any awareness of his/her previous group identity and takes on the culture and attitudes of another group.

Cultural Relativism – practices considered immoral and taboo to a certain group of people but are accepted by other groups with different cultural orientation.

Social Institutions

- A group of social positions, connected by social relations, performing a social role.

1. The Family

- The smallest social institution with the unique function of producing and rearing the young.
- The basic unit of Philippine society and the educational system where the child begins to learn his ABC.

Functions of the Family:

1. Reproduction of the race and rearing of the young
2. Cultural transmission or enculturation
3. Socialization of the child
4. Providing affection and a sense of security
5. Providing the environment for personality development and the growth of self-concept in relation to others
6. Providing social status

Classification of family:

- ✚ Conjugal or nuclear family – consisting of husband, wife and children
- ✚ Consanguine or extended family – consists of married couple, their parents, siblings, grandparents, uncles, aunts, and cousins

According to terms of marriage:

- ✚ Monogamy
- ✚ Polygamy
 - Polyandry – one woman is married to two or more men at the same time
 - Polygyny – one man is married to two or more women
 - Cenogamy – two or more men mate with two or more women in a group marriage

According to line descent:

- + Patrilineal – father's line
- + Matrilineal – mother's line
- + Bilineal – both

According to place of residence:

- + Patrilocal – the newly married couple lives with the parents of the husband
- + Matrilocal – parents of the wife
- + Neolocal – newly married pair maintains a separate household and live by themselves

According to authority:

- + Patriarchal – the father is considered the head and plays a dominant role
- + Matriarchal – the mother or female is the head and makes major decisions
- + Equalitarian – both father and mother share in making decisions and are equal in authority

Family-school Partnership

- Refers to collaborative relationships designed primarily to produce positive educational and social effects on the child while being mutually beneficial to all parties involved.

2. Education/ School

The purpose of school is to help student to be:

- Intellectual ready
- Political ready
- Social ready
- Economic ready

3. Religion

4. Economic Institution

- + Manufacturers
- + Distributors
- + Consumers

5. Government
