QUESTION 52

When is giving praise INEFFECTIVE? When it

- A. Affirms skill and value
- B. Feels authentic
- C. Highlights own effort and focus
- D. Frames success relative to classmates' performance

QUESTION 52

When is giving praise INEFFECTIVE? When it

- A. Affirms skill and value
- B. Feels authentic
- C. Highlights own effort and focus
- D. Frames success relative to classmates' performance

EXPLANATION:

While comparing a student to peers might seem motivating, it often leads to negative outcomes, such as:

1. Undermining intrinsic motivation: The student may start working only to "beat others" instead of enjoying learning or mastering the task.
2. Creating anxiety or resentment: Students who are constantly compared may feel discouraged or competitive in unhealthy ways.
3. Reducing focus on effort: Praise based on comparison shifts attention away from what the student actually did (effort, strategy, persistence) and puts it on external ranking.
